SCOTTISH NEWS LETTER

THE NEW SECRETARY OF STATE FOR SCOTLAND.

HIGHLAND ART SHOW FOR BOMBAY.

THE HOME RULE MOVEMENT

(By Andra.)

New Life-Boat for Scotland.

GLASGOW, October 9.

On October 6, Princess Arthur of Connaught visited the Banffshire Village of Whitehills and performed the naming ceremony of a new motor life-boat provided by the Civil Service Life-boat fund. Sir George Abercrombie presided, and Lord Southborough, chairman of the Civil Service Life-boat Fund, handed over the boat, which was accepted by the Duke of Montrose, chairman of the Scottish Life-boat Council, and by ex-Provost Walker, Banff, for the local branch.

Post Laureate at Glasgow.

Mr. John Masefield, the Post Laureate, will give readings from his recent poems to the Glasgow branch of the Scottish Association for the Speaking of Verse at the Second of the Autumn Meetings on October 14. In November, Mr. L. A. G. Strong, the poet and novelist, will lecture on "Common Sense about Poetry" and Professor Herbert Read of Edinburgh University, has promised to lecture in February on the poetry of Gerard Manley Hopkins.

Coming-of-Age of Mr. Gordon

Duff.

The celebrations of the Coming-of-age of the Laird of Park and Drummur, Banffshire—Lieutenant Thomas Robert Gordon-Duff, of the Rifle Brigade—commenced at Park House of October 5 with a garden party when he was presented with a silver cigarette box from the tenants. Lieut. Gordon Duff bears the names of two of Banffshire's best known ancient families—the Duffs of Drummur and the Gordons of Park. His father died on war service.

Scots Plays in Gaelic.

For the prize which is offered at the Gaelic Mod, now being held at Fort Eilham for the best translation into Gaelic of John Brannan's play, "The Glen is Mine," there are six competitors. Dr. Neil Ross, the president of An Comunn Gaidhealach, hopes one day to see a Gaelic theatre producing Gaelic plays, and this seems to be a modest beginning.

Scottish Painters Show on Liner.

An exhibition of water-colour drawings by members of the Royal Scottish Society of Painters in Water Colours was opened on October 7 on board the s.s. Tuscania—Anchor Line—while the vessel lay in her berth in Glasgow Harbour. This representative collection of Scottish art in water colours the Tuscania will carry during her coming voyage to Bombay, where it will be open to Indian visitors while the vessel remains in that port. The opening ceremony was performed by Sir Ernest Hosson, K.C.S.I., Acting Governor of Bombay.

New Barracks at Aberdeen.

The contracts for the new barracks for the Gordon Highlanders to be erected at Bridge of Don, Aberdeen are about to be placed. It is understood the cost of the barracks will be in the region of £150,000; it is expected the iron work will cost between £60,000 and £70,000 and will provide employment for a large number of building trade workers in Aberdeen.

Sir Godfrey Collins.

Sir Godfrey Collins, the new Secretary of State for Scotland, will make his first public speech since his promotion to Cabinet rank, in Glasgow on October 12 when he will attend the annual dinner of the Trades House. With his long and intimate family and business associations with Glasgow no more appropriate platform could be chosen for his initial appearance as Secretary of State. His grandfather was a Lord Provost of Glasgow in the 'seventies and his great grandfather, it may be remembered, was associated with Dr. Chalmers, and was one of those who walked out of the Assembly in 1843. Sir Godfrey shares with Sir John Gilmour seniority among the Scottish members of Parliament.

"Scotland in London."

The Ayrshire and Perthshire County Associations in London have declared a friendly war, "The Perthshire," which although scarcely two years is already so firmly established that it has issued a challenge to the supremacy of the "Ayrshire," through its president, Lord Amulree, as the strongest and most active of the London Scottish societies. By a determined campaign this winter the older body is determined to substantially increase its numerical strength, while the Perthshire Society is equally determined that it will catch up with its rival and then give it a lead in all Scottish affairs in London. Enthusiasm has been aroused not only among the two groups concerned, but also among other Scottish organisations and the "war" should greatly benefit the whole of "Scotland in London."

Scots to Ask for Home Rule.

An all-party Conference was held in Glasgow on October 7 to consider a draft scheme of self-government for Scotland, some of the basic principles of which are:—That a Parliament shall be set up in Scotland which shall be the final legislative authority on Scottish affairs; That the powers of the Scottish Parliament shall include the control of finance, subject to certain conditions; and that the matters to be reserved to the present Parliament shall be—Succession to the Crown, peace or war, defence forces, foreign affairs, Dominion, Colonial and overseas affairs, with certain reservations relating to immigration, deportation, and other domestic questions; and such other matters as shall be reserved by joint arrangements between the two Parliaments. The scheme was carried with two dissentients.

Resignation of Senior Surgeon of Aberdeen Royal Infirmary.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Aberdeen Royal Infirmary reluctantly accepted the resignation of Sir John Marnock from the office of senior surgeon and resolved that he continued on the honorary staff as a consulting surgeon.

Wade's Highland Roads.

A plea for the preservation of these historic highways has been made by Major C. W. L. Ross, of Kineardine, who has been making a study of the roads constructed by General Wade in the Highlands. He says that some of these roads are being allowed to disappear, and instances part of an old Wade road which had been in use until the new Great North Road was opened 5 or 6 years ago, for which even so short a time he had to scrape amongst the heather. He pointed out that until Wade came to Scotland 200 years ago no roads had been made north of Stirling, and added that it was a very great pity that the Government had not taken steps to make an entire survey of Wade's roads before all traces of them have been lost. General Wade's work of road construction began in 1725.

RADIO FEATURES

WHAT I SAW AT OLYMPIA

SOME VIVID IMPRESSIONS OF A MAGNIFICENT SHOW

[BY A "P.W." TECHNICIAN]

The most prominent here were the new process H.T. batteries which Edison are now making. In connection with these, a helpful and interesting booklet was being distributed.

I came across two Ekco stands. There was first the main one on which were to be seen the full range of Ekco sets. I thought these were among the few really outstanding products in point of general design. They seemed to carry an individuality which lifted them well above the average.

The station selecting dial, which constitutes the leading feature of the majority of Ekco sets, was illustrated by a large model. This Ekco super-het. receiver seemed to be the exhibit that created the greatest interest. (When a firm of the magnitude of Ekco embraces a particular circuit or design, it is as though a seal of approval has been put upon it.) The bakelite cabinets housing the Ekco sets are striking evidence of the advance made in bakelite moulding and its potentialities.

The other Ekco stand was devoted to a visual testing device for radio receivers, which, it was claimed, is the only British-made article of the kind available.

And talking about testing reminds me that most intriguingly elaborate testing gear was to be seen in the I.M.V. display. With the assistance of a gramophone record, actual curves were taken.

The I.M.V. stand won a prize, and in my opinion it thoroughly deserved to do so. It was a truly magnificent affair, glittering with chromium plating and expertly arranged display constructions. There were both artistic and science behind it, indeed, it revealed a complete understanding of the psychology of presentation and salesmanship.

I spent some time examining the H.M.V. instruments, particularly the six-valve super-het. and the wonderful radio-gram with automatic record-changing. I do not think the industry is capable of producing anything better; it is a "last word" in modern radio. My mind jumped back seven or eight years; if anyone had prophesied such an advance as is represented by this H.M.V. instrument he would have been thought insane. And it is only the trained radio engineer who is able to appreciate the beauties of such a magnificent piece of work to the full, though I noticed that inexperienced listeners were by no means unconscious of its more obvious wonders.

I passed from this H.M.V. masterpiece to a stand on which were arrayed a range of sets of the second-class order. I did not stay long, and I am not going to mention the name of the firm to whom they were due. If I could find any praise for them it would only be at best faint praise, and I expect these receivers are really quite adequate and not at all bad value for money.

But such a high standard has been set by so many firms that slight departures from the first-class are apt to assume exaggerated proportions, which is unfortunate. I must say right away that even this does not apply to many. A few years ago, it may have been only one or two, it was necessary for us to issue something in the nature of a warning to the public on account of the rather alarming number of "sub-standard" instruments which were then current.

Very High Standard.

To-day, however, nothing of the kind is necessary. Commercial sets can be bought almost haphazardly just as can other objects of domestic utility—without the risk of disappointment. From "dudness" and adequacy we have progressed to goodness and excellence! That is, of course, generally speaking. There are still the very few exceptions, as there no doubt always will be.

I was attracted to the Epoch stand by the shrilling of a telephone bell. And I hoped that it presaged nice fat orders for this new Epoch set. It deserves it. It is a quality production and reveals craftsmanship of the highest order. Epoch have the advantage that they have been manufacturing moving-coil speakers almost as long as such things have been known. Their set designers must have had a trying time designing a set which satisfied the Epoch executives that it could do full justice to an Epoch loudspeaker!

Good psychology was demonstrated at the Westinghouse stand where technicians in overalls lent an air of dignity to the display befitting the importance of the name of Westinghouse in modern mains radio. The idea would have been quite ruined had they been obsequiously hired attendants uncomfortably wearing the robes of laboratory science.

Very Ingenious.

There was a largish cabinet affair here bearing the inscription: "Put your hand in and the photo-cell will give you a copy." I rather timidly placed my hand in a dimly illuminated aperture at the same time looking for a delivery slot such as figures in a railway slot-machine. But plop! A heavy little book fell on to the hand—I had in fact been made to sign a book.

Apparently there was a ray of light continuously shining across the aperture and when this was interrupted, the photo-electric cell actuated a relay which set the delivery mechanism into operation. Another clever idea of a quite different kind was to be seen at Lissen's stand. Here there was a young lady assembling one of the Lissen kit sets. But she was not too deft, not too practised to spoil the effect. Indeed, I do not think she could have had any previous experience at the task at all, judging by the way she was carefully going to work.

A Fine Demonstration.

If she was acting she was doing it extremely well. But the assembly of this particular set is so straightforward that there would be no point in having anyone skilled.

I was struck by the comprehensiveness of the range of Lissen Radio products. There cannot be anything at all which they do not make and make very well, too. Is there any other radio concern which manufactures complete sets, kit sets, loudspeakers, batteries, valves, mains units, pick-ups, radio-grams, and every conceivable kind of component? I cannot call one to mind. There may be one or two in combination which run Lissen rather close in this respect, but I cannot remember any such which could match Lissen item for item, through a whole wonderful range of good gear at popular prices.

Nevertheless, there need be no cause for trade jealousy in this, for the prosperity of a whole industry depends upon the missionary work which is an incidental factor in the trading of such a concern. Lissens are doing great work in popularising home-radio.

I cannot particularise in regard to their Olympia exhibits, for, as I have shown, their range of products is embarrassingly large, and in any case their new lines have been detailed in our previous issues.

Clever showmanship was evinced by Osborn who had huge piles of unpainted parts of radio cabinets. Apprenticed workmen were engaged in the task of assembling these.

Anti-Interference Units.

Showmanship as effective, but of a totally different kind, was to be seen at Dubilier's. There were scores of small components such as the famous Dubilier grid leaks, condensers and various resistances suspended in serried ranks.

The scheme was not over-done; I should imagine there were fifteen or twenty items in each of these rows.

Dubilier were showing a number of anti-interference units in addition to their various radio components. These anti-interference units are for the suppression of interference due to lifts, refrigerators, and so on. They are connected to the interfering apparatus, and when this is done I can say from experience that the noises disappear. With Post Office publicity, and research, and this Dubilier apparatus, less and less trouble ought to be experienced from "man-made" static.

In order to infuse a little variety into my itinerary I passed from the ground floor to the Mezzanine floor, leaving the remainder of the ground floor stands to be "done" later. The Mezzanine floor is something new. It is reached by the wide and imposing staircase which also leads to the gallery. It lies beneath the gallery and is, in effect, a gallery itself. But it does not run right round the hall. From the central point at the top of the staircase it runs for a certain distance right and left, in the form of a horseshoe. I do not expect the firms occupying positions in it were particularly cheerful about that, although they looked pleased enough about the show in general.

The B.B.C. Exhibits.

The B.B.C. had their exhibits on the Mezzanine floor. First there came a pictorial representation of the complete broadcasting chain from the microphones to the listener's ear.

Then there was a scale model of Broadcasting House. From the front you saw the complete, imposing building, but at the back it was sectioned and you were able to peep into all the studios.

Of course, the whole interior could not be viewed in this manner, but all the more important parts were visible.

Next door, in a glass-encased cabin, two engineers were tending the powerful amplifier which supplied the hundreds of loudspeakers with power. The amplifier was designed to give each loudspeaker about three-quarters of a watt. This does not represent very great volume for a loud-speaker not confined to a comparatively small living-room, and one or two exhibitors approached the engineers and asked for more power.

But, of course, this could not be done. The B.B.C. was not so much interested in seeing that individual loudspeakers gave compellingly robust outputs as in achieving an adequate but restrained over-all effect.

Just as I arrived at the amplifier cabinet the music quietened down until it became almost inaudible; then it increased in volume, but there was terrible distortion.

I at once thought of and sympathised with the hundreds of exhibitors whose very excellent sets and loudspeakers had suddenly begun to deliver a harsh, grating, croaking travesty of modern radio music!

Fortunately, this distortion did not last long, but the improved results had to be even shorter life, for there soon was no music at all! An engineer popped out of the cabin, and I heard him say, "You can't hear it now." The other replied to the effect that this was no cause for wonderment, and I heard a muttered reference to "the valve."

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Here are lists of long-wave and short-wave stations which should be picked up by anyone in Hong Kong who has a moderately good set suitable for receiving such signals. Success in picking up these stations also depends very largely upon favourable atmospheric conditions. Readers are invited to add to this list should they succeed in picking up any station not included in either of these lists.

"Where Did You Learn to MAKE IT?"

Make Teething Time Easier

BABY wants something hard to suck and bite on now that first, eagerly-expected little tooth is coming through! So give Baby Ovaltine Rusks—crisp but not too hard—to exercise his gums with—ensure sound, well-spaced teeth and correct jaw formation.—And continue giving Baby Ovaltine Rusks through childhood so as to keep the teeth strong and healthy. Ovaltine Rusks are made from the finest unbleached wheat flour together with a proportion of Ovaltine—the supreme tonic food—to give them flavour and make them nutritious and easy to digest.

DO YOU KNOW How to Cook a Chop?

Chops, like steaks, are naturally at their best grilled. The first point to remember is that the grill—if gas or electric—must be very hot before you begin to use it, and if it is a question of a coal fire, that it must be both fierce and clear.

Trim the chops neatly, but not too drastically. Brush them over on one side with olive oil or melted butter and grill with this oiled side uppermost for from four to six minutes. I cannot give you the exact time because it depends on the thickness of the meat.

Turn the chops over (with tongs if you have any, with a fork stuck into the fat and not into the lean if you haven't), oil the other side, grill as before, and serve at once on a very hot dish.

If you are serving them with tomato ketchup, which pleases them better than ordinary tomato sauce, pour it round and not over the chops. A few whole grilled mushrooms, a pat of butter mixed with chopped parsley and lemon juice, cabbage, spinach, or peas are all good companions to grilled chops.

If you must fry them, remember to make the frying pan almost red hot, and to avoid putting any oil or fat into it. You can oil the chops slightly though, and you must shake the pan constantly while you are frying them.

BREAKFAST

How nice if properly made!

TEA AND CRISP TOAST

Tea.—First of all fill the empty kettle with cold water, holding it as far away from the tap as you can and letting the water flow strongly. This is to allow as much air as possible to enter with the water.

Next warm the teapot or jug in which it is to be served, the strainer, and the cups.

Then measure the tea and put it in the warm, dry teapot or jug just as the water comes to the boil. Pour the just boiling water on immediately, let it stand the necessary time for infusion, and strain it into the other warm and dry teapot.

Ideas about the time for infusion vary. Personally I think that three minutes is the most generally satisfactory period.

Toast must be fresh. This is really all that there is to be said about it except the points which I think every one knows about not cutting the crusts off until after the bread has been toasted and refusing to let the finished slices lie down. If a toast rack is not immediately available, prop them against a cup or jug till needed.

BEST WAY WITH SAUSAGES

MANY people who like sausages very much find that sausages fail to return the compliment. This is usually because they need more prolonged cooking than they get; and although the freshly and perfectly grilled or fried sausage can be excellent, it is a dietetic fact that all forms of pork should be very thoroughly cooked.

Try this way. Wash the sausages in cold water and prick them with a fork.

Put them in a large saucepan—a small one will not give them room for swelling—with plenty of cold water, and cook quite gently for three quarters of an hour.

Golden Brown. Take them out and let them get quite cold. Don't throw the water away, because when it is cold you will find a cake of white fat floating on top and this you need.

Strain this fat carefully from the water, put it into a clean pan, let it get very hot, then add the sausages and fry them till golden brown. If you want to grill them, of course you can, but the sausage fat can still be used for other things.

Boiled sausages can be treated in the same way, but will be liked better if you allow a slice of grilled or fried bacon to each one.

DISHES FOR Autumn Meals

SUPERIOR CLAM CHOWDER

Cook for 15 minutes
1 pint clams in their own liquor plus enough water to make 3 cups.
Skim off the froth while cooking. When done, skim out the clams and put in chowder kettle. Bring clam liquor to a bubble and add.

2 cups diced raw potato. (About 5 medium-sized ones). Cook for 15 minutes. Turn potatoes and liquid into chowder kettle. While potatoes are cooking try out.

2 tablespoons - diced salt pork. Skim off browned pork and place on cold saucer. Add.

1 cup sliced raw onion to pork fat. 1 medium-sized onion. Cook in uncovered spider from 10 to 15 minutes. Stir frequently.

When cooked to golden brown, empty contents of spider into chowder kettle. While cooking above ingredients, scald.

3 cups milk in double boiler. (Part evaporated milk may be used if necessary). When clams, potatoes and onion are in chowder kettle, add hot milk and place over very low fire. Mix to smooth liquid.

2 tablespoons flour and 1 cup water. Add.

1 teaspoon salt and pinch of pepper. Pour gradually into the chowder and simmer gently for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Add.

Browned pork scraps. Stir 2 minutes longer. Serve very hot.

On. Toasted Boston crackers, split in halves and placed in bottom of soup plates. Allow two whole crackers for each serving. Serves six. Time of preparation about 1 hour.

Note: If chowder is to be made at an hour when time is limited, the potatoes and onions may be prepared in advance and placed in bowls of cold water. Salt pork may be diced, wrapped in wax paper and placed in icebox. Flour and water mixture may be blended also, and placed in icebox. If these things are done in advance, time of actual preparation in cooking will be about 1 hour.

One pound of hand-diced or cut may be substituted for the clams if desired, in which case the fish must be thoroughly washed, and cooked in 3 cups salted water for 20 minutes, or until flaky. Skim out of liquor, cool and remove from bones. Add to chowder kettle and proceed as for clam chowder, cooking potatoes in fish liquor. Fish chowder will require about 10 minutes more time, as fish does not cook as quickly as clams.

PORK CHOPS FLORENTINE

Dredge with Flour, and season with Salt and pepper.

6 shoulder pork chops. Sear both sides until well browned; reduce heat, and cook 30 minutes. Put a layer of

Hot cooked spinach in a shallow baking dish, and arrange the chops on it. Add

2 egg yolks, beaten, to 2 cups medium white sauce, and pour over chops.

Spinkle with Grated Swiss cheese. Brown in oven, or under flame. Will serve six.

ENGLISH POTATO POT

Place in casserole 1 onion cut small

1 pound beefsteak cut into small pieces and rolled in

Flour

8 medium sized potatoes diced

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon pepper. Fill with Boiling water and bake with lid on 2 hours at 275° F. then uncover and brown.

MACARONI & VEGETABLES

EN CASSEROLE

Mix together

1 teaspoon minced parsley

1 tablespoon chopped onion

1 small chopped onion

1 teaspoon salt and

1 teaspoon pepper. In a buttered dish arrange in layers

1 cup cooked macaroni

1 cup cooked peas

1 cup cooked corn, then the mixed seasonings. Partly fry

3 strips of bacon and lay them over the top, then pour into the fat in the frying pan.

1 1/2 cups of milk. When it boils, turn it over the vegetables.

Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) until nicely browned (about 45 minutes). This serves four persons.

HOT SLAW

Cut the amount of cabbage needed for four people into small pieces or shred, and cook in a little water until tender. Season with a small amount of butter and add the following mixture:

1 well-beaten egg

1/2 cup cream (sweet or sour)

1 teaspoon cornstarch

1 teaspoon sugar

Scant half cup of vinegar. Stir and cook over hot water until thickened. Serve hot.

MEAT is ENERGY

Eat plenty of meat in cold weather. It supplies the fuel that the body requires.

The best meat is not an extravagance but an asset in the form of good health.

TOMATO COCKTAIL

The most important thing about a tomato cocktail is that it should be very cold and attractively served. Good-looking glasses should hold it, and water thin slices of brown bread, spread with green or anchovy butter, may accompany it.

If you want to make the menu more substantial without introducing an extra course you can supplement the brown bread and butter with fresh toast spread with grated cheese, with biscuits of cheese pastry, with quarters of hard-boiled eggs, olives, or anchovies.

The cocktails, themselves may be made with fresh tomatoes, the juice squeezed out of them, strained through muslin or cheesecloth, seasoned and iced. There are, on the other hand, excellent brands of tomato juice to be bought.

Some people like to enhance them with chopped or grated onions, bayleaf, sugar, parsley, and a piquant sauce, letting the mixture stand for half an hour or so before it is strained. But many people find that a simple seasoning of salt, pepper, and perhaps a pinch of sugar is all it needs.

ANGLO-SIAM CORPORATION
RESULTSCOMPANY'S STRONG POSITION.

The balance-sheet of the Anglo-Siam Corporation discloses a further increase in the company's large holdings of British Government and other securities, which now stand at $475,918. Including these investments and $124,376 in cash and Treasury Bills, the floating assets amount to $297,000, whereas the current liabilities are no more than $215,000.

Thus the company's liquid position is very strong. The income from its holding of investment securities has been of great value to the corporation in the present depressed condition of business, for while in the year to March 31 last total profits were $56,405, of which dividends and interest contributed $23,723, or 42 per cent. of the corporation's income, revenue from dividends and interest for 1930-31, though actually larger in amount, provided only 27 per cent. of the total income. For the past year profits from timber and general trading were $32,675, compared with $40,328 for the previous year, and the total revenue $56,405, against $71,174.

Substantial economies have been effected by the corporation of late years and as a result of further reductions in outgoings the net earnings at $29,530 show a decline of only $5,069. Including a further sum of $10,000 drawn from the dividend equalization fund, the available balance is $291,220, and the board reduce the final dividend on the Ordinary shares from 15 to 12½ per cent., making 17½, against 20 per cent. for the whole year. The report gives no indication of improvement in the position, stocks of cut timber having accumulated unduly and sales of rough timber having ceased abruptly.

Forest operations have been curtailed since the end of the year. The general trading business of the corporation underwent further contraction, but the directors state that as the result of a cautious policy losses arising from depreciation of stocks and bad debts have been minimized.

INCREASE IN MOTOR
TRAFFIC IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, Oct. 12.—Many interesting facts about road traffic are disclosed by the Automobile Association's annual census, which is taken at over 100 points on the principal roads in Great Britain during a week of 77 hours ending August. In comparison with last year, cars show an increase of 100,000 this year, motor-cycles a slight decrease of 36,000. Over a period of 4 years from 1928 the number of cars has increased on the roads by 24 per cent., motor-cycles have decreased by 18 per cent. and all other classes of motors, increased by 46 per cent. The motor vehicles recorded in 1928 totalled 2,275,196—in 1932, 2,769,202—an increase of 494,166, or 21 per cent.

STERLING WILL RECOVERCONFIDENCE IN BRITISH
FINANCIAL CIRCLESLONDON PASSIVITY PUZZLES
EUROPEAN CAPITALS

London, Oct. 25.—Asked whether speculative attacks on Sterling had been checked by the Exchange Equalisation Account, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, said in the House of Commons to-day that he was unable to assess to what extent speculation in exchange existed, but he had no doubt that the reserves of foreign currency in this account acted as a deterrent against the activities of speculators.

The purpose of the account, he explained, was to prevent excessive fluctuations in the value of currency. It was never intended to keep exchange at a fixed price, or keep it within a fixed range of values in opposition to seasonal or other tendencies.

The fall of sterling to within twopenny of the low record, 8s.2½, after Britain abandoned the gold standard, has given rise to rumours that Continental speculators are attacking sterling, selling large blocks and rushing to buy them back cheaper on the delivery day.

London, however, regards the chief cause of the fall as seasonal conditions, together with the adverse trade balance due to the recent large purchases of raw material. The Treasury and the Bank of England are fully expected to enter the market at the right moment to the dismay of foreign bears.

German Anxiety.

London, Oct. 26.—Financial circles are confident that sterling will strengthen as the round of international rumours fizzled out.

It is pointed out here that since the abandonment of the Gold Standard long-term British Government securities have risen by about 50 per cent., while the dollar value of sterling has fallen by about 30 per cent., but the purchasing power of the pound over commodities is actually higher than it was a year ago.

The Financial Times, discussing the fall of sterling during the last few days, remarks that if the recent course of sterling is regarded less as a varying measure of its gold value than as indicative of its purchasing power the position may be seen in a truer light.

The Continent is more concerned regarding the course of sterling than are the home authorities, whose apparent passivity has puzzled them. In Berlin the drop in sterling has aroused anxiety as it is expected to result in increased British competition in the international markets.

An eminent Paris economic authority stated to-day that there had not been a concerted French attack on sterling. He attributed the fall to seasonal requirements, the debt payments to America due in December and the fact that money was cheap in London and this was scaring away capital.

Portugal's Action.

Lisbon, Oct. 26.—As a direct consequence of the new slump of the Pound Sterling the Portuguese Government decided to-day to re-introduce the gold standard and to divorce thereby Portugal's currency from the pound on which it was hitherto based and the vacillations of which, it is stated, has seriously affected the country's commerce.

A TROLLOPE MS. FOR THE NATION

London, Oct. 11.—Anthony Trollope's most important surviving MS. has been preserved for the nation through the instrumentality of the "Friends of the National Libraries." This is the Autobiography of the Trollope family preserved in the original brown paper wrapping, endorsed "to be opened after my death," in which Trollope enclosed it when he finished its writing. On Oct. 9, it was handed over to the keeping of the British Museum. Several small differences which exist in the printed text had evidently been inserted in the proof, while one longer passage in the manuscript tells the full story of Trollope's unfortunate revelation to Edmund Yates of the misunderstanding which took place at a Cornhill dinner between Thackeray and George Smith, the publisher.

LINER'S RECORD

London, Oct. 10.—The Cunard liner Lancastria arrived at Liverpool on Oct. 8 at 7 a.m. from a 14 days' cruise in the Mediterranean, and at 7 p.m. the same day she set off again on a second 14 days' trip. In less than 12 hours this 17,000 ton liner landed 700 passengers and their baggage, refuelled, reprovvisioned and embarked a new contingent of 700 passengers.

AMERICAN GIRL IN MONGOLIADISCOVERER OF LOST
TRIBETALE OF ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE

Harbin.—An American girl, Miss Ethel John Lindgren of Evanston, Illinois, has become famous far and wide in Mongolia as the first white woman in many years to brave the perils of that far-flung and remote plateau of mid-Asia. Among some of the more remote, and primitive tribes Miss Lindgren, tall, sturdy and statuesque, has gained the title of "American Queen of Mongolia." She has recently completed one more of several expeditions into the almost closed land of Mongolia and is now on her way back to the United States through Europe.

Miss Lindgren's father was once consul in Chicago for Norway and Sweden. She is a step-daughter of Henry Richheim, noted American violinist and composer.

In Mongolia it is a question whether this adventurous American girl is best known for her discovery of the lost tribe of the "Beindeer Tungus," an almost extinct branch of the Turo-Turanian race living isolated on one of the western tributaries of the Amur River, or the introduction into Mongolia of the American pack-saddle, which has all but supplanted the crude Russian, Chinese or Mongol saddle formerly in universal use.

In her Mongolian expeditions, covering three years, Miss Lindgren dressed in men's clothes and was often taken for a man, but she never attempted to conceal her sex. The fact she was a woman, she said, helped rather than retarded her, for she was able to come very close to the lives of the Mongol women and children. On festive occasions and fete days she wore the native dress of the Mongolian women, she chatted with the Mongolian women in their native tongue, and played with the children. She won the confidence and affection of the artless but often suspicious tribes people by treating them in their illness and showing them the principles of hygiene and sanitation.

Lived Native Fashion.

Throughout her exploration and survey work in Mongolia Miss Lindgren lived in a Mongolian "yurt" (tent made of goat's hair), mingling with the tribespeople and eating native food. Whenever her food gave out, which happened on numerous occasions, she went out rifle in hand and shot game and wildfowl. Once she went without food for a fortnight and lost 15 pounds. Frequently she encountered wild and dangerous animals in the forests, but she was always well-armed and accompanied by native guides.

Before she was to leave Mongolia, Miss Lindgren's adventurous and romantic life was capped by the supreme adventure of romance and love. She fell in love with a tall, stalwart and handsome Swede, Oscar Mamen, who twenty years ago, introduced cigarettes into Mongolia. After guiding Miss Lindgren for three years into all sorts of adventures and expeditions, Mamen finally "guided" her to the altar. They were married in Urga, capital of Mongolia, where they first met. Mamen has spent twenty-five years among the tribes of Inner and Outer Mongolia, and speaks fluent Mongolian, Russian, German, English, and half a dozen other languages. Like his talented wife, Mr. Mamen is an expert on Mongolian ethnography and geography.

For literary purpose, Mrs. Mamen retains her maiden name of Lindgren. She is now on her way to the United States, where she intends to lecture on Mongolia and her discoveries and researches in that interesting part of the world. She will later return to Mongolia to resume her explorations and studies.

WHOLESALE PRICES IN HONG KONG7.5 PER CENT. DECREASE ON JUNE QUARTER

COURSE OF CHANGE SINCE 1913

As measured at the Statistical Office of the Imports and Exports Department, wholesale prices in Hong Kong during the 3rd Quarter of 1932 registered a decrease of 7.5 per cent. as compared with the June Quarter, and increase of 9.7 per cent. and 17.2 per cent. as compared with 1924 and the base year of 1922, respectively.

It will be seen from the following table which shows the course of price changes since 1913, that as compared with the June quarter there were declines in each of the four groups during the September quarter. Foodstuffs fell by 4 per cent.; Textiles by 7.5 per cent.; Metals and Minerals by 11.0 per cent.; and Miscellaneous Items by 6.1 per cent.

CHASE BANK'S
CLAIMDEFENCE WITNESS CROSS-EXAMINED

QUESTION OF TRUST RAISED

At the Supreme Court yesterday, in the Chief Justice's Court, the case in which the Chase Bank is suing the Yue Yau firm for a claim arising out of a Bill of Exchange for Yen 100,000 was continued. The whole day was taken up by the cross-examination of the principal witnesses for the defence, Mr. To Sze Yuen, by Mr. H. G. Sheldon, Counsel for the Bank.

Mr. Sheldon asked whether witness agreed that, according to a letter written by the Formosa firm to the Hong Kong firm, the Formosa firm were financially pressed?—Witness said that he agreed that the letter pointed that way.

Mr. Sheldon then read another letter from Formosa and asked witness if it was not stated in the letter that Kobe had indicated that they feared they would not be able to collect payments on the drafts against rice shipments, and so become unable to meet the bill for Yen 100,000 when it became due?—Witness agreed.

Mr. Sheldon: The letter also stated that the Hong Kong firm was to ask the bank to extend the bill for one month?—Yes.

It appears from that letter that the Kobe firm was also hard up?—It was only the opinion of the Formosa firm. For all we know the position might not have been so.

At a further stage Mr. Sheldon asked: The object of your drawing a bill for Yen 100,000 was to obtain the money from the Kobe firm?—Yes.

Did they owe you that money?—No. We were acting on instructions of the firm in Formosa.

The bill and the one which forms the subject of the action were the only ones you have drawn on the Yue Yau in Kobe?—Yes.

Every other bill that you have ever drawn on the Yue Yau has been sold to the bank?—That is correct.

And how long was it since you have been drawing bills on the Yue Yau Company?—About 1928.

I put it to you that between July, 1927, and October, 1928, you drew 18 bills on Yue Yau, Kobe, all of which were sold to the Equitable Eastern Bank?—Yes.

None of them were for collection?—That is so.

What was the reason for your departure from your ordinary course

MUSSELS

Of course, when you are at the seaside you will go hunting for cockles and mussels, and the cockles may give you a number of surprises, for they are most lively little fellows, and, unless you cover your catch, a number of them may hop clean out of your pot, and race you to water's edge.

The cockle is one of the burrowers, and he has a foot which he uses very much as the razor shell uses his. He does not like to be out of the water for any length of time, so you must look for him in rather soft, muddy parts of the beach. When the sea goes back he quickly buries himself in the wet sand, and stays there until the tide rises again. Something must give him warning that the water is on the way, for, when it is still a little distance from his burrow out he comes and dashes down to meet it in a series of hops.

His foot is his means of progress. He uses it like a spring to hurl himself into the air and carry himself forward. If you are standing between a cockle-bed and the sea when the tide is rising, you will be pelted with cockles rushing blindly to the water. You will stand and laugh at them for it is a gay, amusing sight.

Mussels are much more peace-loving creatures. They like to be quiet, and they choose sheltered harbours for a home, and stick to one particular spot, as though nothing would ever make them move.

You know, their black shells, of course, with the beautiful blue-pearl lining, which they only open when the sea washes over them.

They use their foot to weave a number of threads into what is called the "byssus" or "beard," and with this beard they attach themselves firmly to rocks or breakwaters, or to another mussel. Often you will find large clusters, all firmly fixed together, with tiny stones and other shells mixed up in the threads.

If you can persuade a fisherman to open some of his cockles and mussels for you to look inside, you may find the tiniest crab in the world, the pea crab, so called because it is no bigger than a pea. These creatures live inside the cockles and mussels, and they are quite content to share their houses with them.

QUARANTINE

"Forging, altering, or uttering knowingly and wilfully, any certificate of quarantine shall be adjudged felony and punished with death without benefit of clergy."

This solemn passage occurs in an Act of George III., dated 1806, and refers to the certificate granted by the portmaster releasing a vessel, or otherwise, from quarantine.

Quarantine, meaning forty days, was the period for which ships coming from foreign ports were liable to be isolated in case of infection, but, although the term is in general use at the present time, medical inspection by port authorities has superseded the quarantine procedure of the past.

Vessels arriving from abroad requiring or requiring to show a clean bill of health, still fly the old yellow flag, "Q," and to indicate an infected ship the flag "L," which is black and yellow quarterly.

New instructions coming into force at the end of next year provide for "Q" being flown over "L" in the latter signed; and "Q" with a pennant-shaped substitute flag, yellow with upper and lower edges blue, below it, means, I am suspect, or there has been unusual mortality among the rats on board my ship.

BRIBERY CHARGES AGAINST SUB-INSPECTOR WALLER

INSPECTOR F. HOARE IN THE WITNESS BOX

DEFENCE'S CASE: "A BLANK DENIAL"

The case against acting Sub-Inspector H. Waller, attached to the Taipo Market Police Station, was resumed at the local court yesterday morning, before Mr. E. H. Williams, District Officer.

The defendant is charged with demanding and receiving a bribe of $30.

Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton appeared for the defendant, while the case for the Crown was conducted by Mr. J. A. Fraser.

Ho Wah, a herbalist and proprietor of the Po Wa Tong shop at Taipo Market, told the Court that while Waller was in the shop, he was approached by the fok, Ho Kiu, and as a result of a conversation which the latter had with him he borrowed $50 from two sources, which he handed to Ho Kiu.

Cross-examined by Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton, witness said the first time he saw the opium was when he was told about it by Ho Kiu, and accompanied the latter to the cubicle, where Waller had preceded him.

When he went in, all four men—the accused, the Chinese detective, Wong Fat, and Chan Pak—were present, besides Ho Kiu. He was quite certain he handed the $50 to Ho Kiu in the front part of the shop.

Money Handed Over.

Mr. Brutton: If the Chinese detective says that the two old men and the accused left the room immediately after the finding of the opium, would that be correct?—It would not be quite correct. I only saw the accused leave.

It has been stated that the accused left at the same time as the old man?—I did not see the two old men leave.

When was the money handed by you to Ho Kiu?—About 1 p.m.

When you were first asked about the case by the police, did you not say you paid it over at 12 o'clock?—I said after 12 o'clock.

Witness agreed that he saw opium on a table in the cubicle.

Was it open or wrapped up?—I did not notice.

And yet you could say you saw opium?—I did not particularly notice the opium.

A Goldsmith's Evidence.

Sun Chun Yeung, master of the Wah Chan goldsmith's shop at Taipo Market, giving evidence said that Ho Wah was his landlord, and on October 2 he came to his (witness's) shop at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and asked him for a loan of $50. Witness lent Sun Chun Yeung the money and made an entry in his paying-out book, which read "Paid to the hand of Ho Wah on the 3rd of the ninth moon the sum of $50."

Cross-examined by Mr. Hall Brutton, witness said that he paid Ho Wah $20 per month rent, but he could not say whether he paid his rent for September on that date.

Witness went on to say that he had often lent money to his landlord on previous occasions, and that it was quite usual for Ho Wah to borrow money from him.

Hau Chiu Cheung, master of a tailor's shop at Taipo Market, said that on October 2 Ho Kiu, Ho Wah's fok, came to him to borrow money at about one or two p.m., but he did not lend Ho Kiu any money because he had none. Witness did not see anyone with him.

Defendant's Duties.

Mr. Fraser then called Acting Inspector Frank Hoare, officer in charge of Taipo Police Station, who said that the hours of duty of the defendant on October 2 were from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Ling Sam, the Chinese detective, was also on duty at Taipo Market on this date, on "Station Reserve." His hours of duty were from 8 a.m. on the 2nd to 8 a.m. on the 3rd. His duties included any special work that might be assigned to him, and the searching of the steam launch Taiping's passengers.

The first occasion on which witness heard of the allegations against the defendant was on October 3. On the 17th witness arrested Inspector Waller as he was leaving Kowloon Hospital.

"I Deny the Charge."

Continuing, Inspector Hoare said: I told defendant I had to escort him to the I.G.P.'s office. I charged him in the charge room, where he made a statement which he read and signed. The statement read, "I deny the charge."

Witness, who told the Court that he had 18½ years' experience in the Hong Kong Police Force, said that if he went into a cubicle and saw a man holding a packet of opium, or what appeared to be a packet of opium, he would arrest the man and take both the man and the opium to the Police Station.

Cross-examining the witness, Mr. Hall Brutton said: What time does the Taiping arrive?—About 2.30. The launch which Ling Sam had to attend?—Yes.

Chinese Detectives.

Continuing, Mr. Hall Brutton said: You have heard of cases where Chinese detectives have shielded themselves behind European officers, on being accused of taking a bribe. Witness: I can't remember such an instance.

Mr. Hall Brutton: You know the present instance is one of them?—No.

In answer to Mr. Fraser, witness said that the detective in this case had not been charged with accepting a bribe on October 2.

Mr. Fraser: Why not? Witness: That is a matter for my superior officers.

Detective Recalled.

Recalled by the District Officer, the detective, Ling Sam, said that he called out to the Inspector from the foot of the stairs in the medicine shop, "Inspector! Inspector!"

The District Officer: When did you first know the Inspector was upstairs?—When he answer me from upstairs after I called out. Continuing, witness said, that when Ho Kiu paid over the $50 he left, leaving witness at the foot of the stairs. The Inspector then told witness to go and collect the street-cleaning money. Ling Sam paid over to the foreman what money he collected from the three shops. He then went to the Taipo Police Station. Witness next saw the defendant on the road near the Taipo Government Dispensary. He was walking toward the Police Station and witness overtook him.

"When I got the opium, I went back to the Taipo Market. I then returned to the Police Station and afterwards went down to the Taipo Pier, where I arrived at about 2.20 p.m."

Witness then told the Court that it took him about 10 minutes to walk from the Police Station to the Taipo Wharf. This concluded the case for the prosecution.

"Our Case a Blank Denial."

In opening the case for the defence, Mr. Hall Brutton said: "Our case is a blank denial of the allegations, and I propose calling several fokies who will say that Acting Sub-Inspector Waller was not in the Chan Cheung medicine shop that day, and that the first time he was seen in the neighbourhood of the shop was after 2 p.m. that day, when the master of the shop was leaving for the native village of Tin Kok."

The first witness for the defence was Wong Po, master of the Chan Cheung medicine shop at Taipo Market, and an elder of the district and chairman of the Merchants' Guild.

In giving evidence, he said he had known Inspector Waller for several years. He also knew Ling Sam, Ho Wah, and Ho Kiu. On the third day of the ninth moon he spent the morning in his shop until about 2 p.m. when he left with the intention of going to Tin Kok.

Asks for Detective.

"Outside my shop, I met the street-cleaner Chan Chiu, to whom I spoke. Shortly afterwards the defendant, Inspector and the detective passed by. I asked the Inspector to let me have his detective to the shop they would have seen him. The hearing was adjourned."

PRISON TRAGEDY
RECALLEDINQUEST ON WARDER
M. FRIEND

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED

The recent tragedy at Laichikok Prison in which Warder Maurice Friend was found shot, with a bullet wound in the head, formed the subject of a Coroner's enquiry at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. H. R. Butters sat as Coroner assisted by a jury comprised of Messrs. O. Christian (foreman), J. B. Antiquira and J. Gardner. After medical evidence had been given by Dr. K. H. Uttley, medical officer in charge of Kowloon Mortuary, regarding the cause of death—shock following a wound in the head—Warder T. M. Parker, one of deceased's mess-mates, stated that on the morning in question—October 24, he was awakened by Warder Collins and told that the deceased was missing. He immediately got up and went over to deceased's bed which was about fifteen feet from his. He searched deceased's drawer for his revolver but could not find it. Witness then went to the lavatory to look for him but in vain. Soon afterwards he heard from Warder Collins that deceased had been found shot in the bathroom. He immediately went there and found deceased sitting on the floor with his back against the wall. He had a wound in the right temple and a revolver was lying on his stomach, partly covered by his right hand with the index finger on the trigger.

Mess Catering.

In answer to the Coroner witness stated that about two hours previous to the tragedy he heard deceased muttering to himself lying on the bed with his eyes closed.

Deceased was a very quiet man and had seemed somewhat depressed through the recent death of Warder Sullivan, who was a great friend of his. Before his death deceased was caterer in the Officers' Mess. When witness later took over that position he found that there were some discrepancies in the accounts, deceased having incurred a debt of $275.10 to the mess compradore.

At the recent inquest on Warder Rooney who also died under similar circumstances, deceased was a witness and stated that he was only a few yards away when Rooney shot himself.

After evidence of a similar nature had been given by Warder Walker and Sub-Inspector W. Mair, the jury returned a verdict of "Suicide while temporary Insane."

go with Chan Chiu to collect the money for the street-cleaning."

Witness went on to say that it was the first time that day that he had seen the defendant, and denied that the Inspector had been to his shop earlier in the day. Further, the defendant had not been up to his (witness's) room above the shop that day. The first time that witness saw the detective Ling Sam, was when he was with the Inspector. Witness had not seen Ho Kiu that morning, and Ho Kiu had not been to his shop.

Mr. Hall Brutton: Assuming that Ling Sam had called out from the foot of the stairs, "Inspector! Inspector!" would you have heard?—Yes, certainly.

Cross-examined by Mr. Fraser, Wong Po said that he was on good terms with the defendant who knew him well enough to call in at his home occasionally and talk.

Mr. Fraser: On October 2, when you met the defendant did you take him up to your room above the shop?—No.

When the back door is open, is it possible for someone to enter by the back door and go up the stairs without anyone seeing them from the front?—It might be possible.

Witness then said that at no time during that day did he see the defendant on the premises.

Corroborative evidence was submitted by several fokies from the Chan Cheung shop who denied seeing the defendant, or the Chinese detective, on the premises on the day in question, and stated that if the Inspector had come into the shop they would have seen him. The hearing was adjourned.

CONTRACTORS
HEAVILY FINEDWRONG USE OF "GREEN ISLAND" CEMENT BAGS

ALLEGED JAPANESE PRODUCT

Mr. O. E. C. Marton prosecuted in two cases which came before Mr. Schofield yesterday in which two contractors were charged on three counts arising out of their using "Green Island" Cement bags for cement other than the "Green Island" product.

Summonses against the Lo Sang firm, of Lockhart Road, were taken first, a representative, in answer to the counts, remarking that his workmen had merely placed cement into the Green Island bags because the original bags had become torn.

Mr. Marton explained that the facts were the same as those in the second case against the Ip Sin Kee firm, of 12, Western Street, for whom Mr. Horace Lo entered a plea of not guilty on three similar summonses. As he desired to address the Court, he preferred that Mr. Lo, as he had pleaded not guilty, should not be in Court during his address.

Mr. Lo Stays in Court.

Mr. Lo replied that he did not wish to insist that he should remain in Court if his Worship thought that he should not. But his friend's idea was that he should leave Court because he (Mr. Marton) was going to make certain admissions. In that case he (Mr. Lo) thought that he ought to remain. The case was open to the public, and he was a member of the public. If Mr. Marton proposed to submit certain arguments he (Mr. Lo) thought there should be no objection. He should know what those arguments were.

Mr. Marton assured Mr. Lo that there was no argument at all. He was merely going to state the facts. The summonses against Mr. Lo's clients were then adjourned until Tuesday afternoon.

Result of a Reward.

Opening the case against Lo Sang, Mr. Marton said the summonses were brought by the Green Island Cement Co. as a result of information which they had received from an informer. A reward was offered for evidence of this kind and a notice had been inserted in three Chinese newspapers, starting on October 2 and continued to date. On Tuesday the Green Island Cement Company received information that the defendant was committing the offences which were the subject of the summonses. Mr. T. C. T. Beck, of the Green Island Cement Company, and Mr. Fung Kwok Wah, the cashier, went to 58, Lockhart Road and there saw two coolie women filling up bags with cement. The bags were those of the Green Island Cement Co., and bore their trade mark, but the cement was not the kind manufactured by the Green Island Cement Company.

Mr. Marton went on to say that some of the cement was in other bags and part of it was on the floor of the shop, and was being mixed with some other mixture before being put into Green Island Cement Company bags. The Green Island Cement Company were sealed in a special manner, with a length of wire, and the bags in the present case were also being done up in that way by two women. As far as the complainant Company were aware, they were the only importers, who use these methods.

The women on being asked who owned the cement, said it belonged to the people next door, the Lo Sang firm. The police later made a search of the premises and found 10 bags of cement.

Only a fortnight ago, said solicitor, the Green Island Cement Company undertook a prosecution in the Kowloon Court for a similar offence, and the facts in that case were similar to the facts of the present case. It was obvious that the defendants were trying to defraud the Green Island Cement Company, and the public, by selling Japanese cement in Green Island Cement Company bags.

Mr. Marton mentioned that Green Island Cement Company's cement was worth $3.25 per bag and the Japanese cement about $1.60.

Mr. Marton said that in the former case he asked for the imposition of the maximum fine and also for the costs of the prosecution. Mr. Butters, who heard the case, fined the defendant $100 on the first and $50 on the second count, there being only two counts against the defendant on that occasion. (Continued on next column.)

BROWNIES RALLY
AT GOVT. HOUSE5TH HONG KONG PACK
WINS COMPETITION

The local Brownies' Packs held their annual Rally at Government House yesterday afternoon, where elves, fairies, pixies, sprites and gnomes had a royal time.

The occasion was not however one of quite unalloyed pleasure, for it entailed an inspection during which marks were given for tidiness of uniform, hair and shoes, cleanliness of hands and the ability to tie knots, etc., an unquisition, if the truth must be told, which those in charge of the various packs, and the inspecting officers, appeared to take considerably more seriously than the Brownies themselves. But fairies and their kin, while daintily according to tradition in their appearance, have always seemed a trifle impatient of mortal meticulousness.

If the "party" spirit was more evident than the team spirit, which we suppose should animate these little folk on inspection day, we feel sure that Mrs. Southorn in her joint capacity of giver of the "lovely party" and Commissioner of Guides did not mind, and it was certainly a delightful sight to see the Brownies so evidently enjoying themselves.

An excellent tea was served to guests and Brownies, and a military band enlivened the proceedings on the lawn. When all the marks were added, it was found that the 5th Hong Kong Pack, the only all-Chinese Pack in the Colony, were easy winners, the 1st Hong Kong Pack coming second.

Two troops of Guides were also invited, the winners last year of the Prince of Wales' Banner the 1st Kowloon Troop, captained by Miss Owen-Hughes, and the runners-up, the 5th Hong Kong Troop, captained by Mrs. Cressy.

Costs of $200 were also awarded against the defendant.

The Green Island Cement Company had hoped that that conviction would act as a deterrent to others, because it had been published in the newspapers, but it had not had the desired effect.

Big Penalty Demanded.

Mr. Marton submitted that his worship should impose the maximum fine against the defendant, and also order that he pay the costs of the prosecution up to the amount that his Worship might deem sufficient. He also asked for an order for the return of all Green Island Cement Company bags and the destruction of the cement contained therein.

His Worship would appreciate, how easy it was for the fraud to be perpetrated, and the profit was about 200 per cent. If his Worship agreed with what he (Mr. Marton) had said, he suggested that the maximum penalty be imposed. His Worship would appreciate that the Green Island Cement Company had gone to considerable expense in inserting the advertisements in the news papers and there seemed to be no way to stop the offence except by the imposition of the maximum penalty.

Besides the 10 full bags which the police had seized, there were 22 empty bags which presumably were ready to be filled.

$500 Penalty.

The defendant was fined $100 on each of the three summonses, and ordered to pay $200 for the cost of the prosecution. He was also ordered to return the bags to the Green Island Cement Company and to destroy their contents.

CHINA AND HER UNIVERSITIES

PROFESSOR L. FORSTER in his survey before the Education Society of Hong Kong of the work of the Universities along the Yangtze Valley drew attention to certain aspects of China's Educational problem which perhaps need further comment. The Professor suggested that China, in her anxiety to get into line with the rest of the world, has devoted too much of her energies to the higher side of education and too little to the primary. There is no doubt that in one sense the existence of the universities has stimulated the growth of middle schools and primary schools. In fact many of the universities according to the report of the League of Nations mission have themselves been compelled to establish middle schools in order to ensure a stream of students who would be capable of benefiting by such higher teaching. This, however, is not desirable for it means that the primary and secondary or middle schools are merely appendages of the University, and that the pupils in them can only regard themselves as successful in so far as they succeed in entering the University in spite of the fact that only a very small fraction would benefit by further academic work even if they could afford the time and the money to get there.

The European view is that the primary and secondary system should be rounded and should lead to industry and commerce, but in certain cases to technical colleges and only for those gifted in the academic sense to the University.

The American system, however, aims at a College or University education for all, and in a country which is economically prosperous and which makes its universities cover the work of technical institutions this is a desirable system, but China cannot afford this. She is bound to apply a severe selective test to those whom she can afford to educate on a university level. What the League of Nations mission recommends, then, is the building up of a sound primary system, which will ensure at least four years in the first place to every child, and so put an end to the excessive illiteracy which exists. The position in some provinces is much worse than in others, the range being from about ten per cent of children in schools in the backward provinces, such as Yunnan, up to seventy-six per cent in the province of Shensi. By having co-education in the earlier stages it would be possible to increase very considerably the number of pupils in the primary stages, and by increasing the size of the classes in other a still greater number could be given the advantages of early education.

The present emphasis upon university education in China is due to the fact that the country which is economically poor has taken over her system from the United States which is economically rich. This accounts also for the lavish staffing which one finds in the Universities of China, for again the American view is that a very important function of a university, if not the most, is research, and in order to set thinkers apart for their work at universities it is necessary to staff them very generously. This again is a most desirable aim, but can only be attained legitimately in those countries which are sufficiently well off to afford this scope to its lecturers and professors. A large section of the university staffs, then, should be set free for the work in the secondary schools, so that the quality of the teaching in that sphere of education should be raised.

At the present moment China is not making the best use of her educational resources which need redistributing over the whole, rather than concentrated at an upper end. Another problem which has been neglected hitherto has been rural education. The schools and universities have made too liberal a provision for the potential government official and too little for the farmer, who forms the backbone of the nation. The only sort of education at present provided is the kind that unfits a person to remain in the village. It ought not to be difficult to make the village school a natural part of village life, if the teacher is equipped with the right sort of knowledge.

What is suggested is that China should now build up her educational system from the bottom, and in accordance with the conditions as she finds them in her own country, and not make any further provision at the present time for extending the educational work at the top. Her system would then be more selective and only those who would be likely to bring real intellectual power to the nation would find themselves in the places of higher learning.

Seeing Green.

Berlin scientists now declare that the cause of jealousy in women is an excess of iodine in the blood.

Hitherto a superficial inspection of the men they are jealous about led to the erroneous conclusion that the seat of the trouble was in the brain.

Necessity.

Necessity seems to have mothered the invention of an entirely new type of paper shoe. When a motorist sought Kansas tire shop for repairs the attendants were surprised to find that the blown-out tire harboured a folded newspaper instead of the usual inner shoe.

Vatican and Bathing.

Rome, Thursday.—A plea for the stricter control of bathing costumes worn by visitors to Italian seaside resorts has been made by the Vatican in its official organ, the Osservatore Romano. The newspaper also denounces all beauty competitions and the publication of pictures of bathing girls.

Villadom Disturbed.

Residents of Hampton, the pleasant Thames retreat, intend to oppose a scheme for building cheap houses in the locality. It is feared that house values will depreciate if the character of the place is thus altered. Unfortunately, so long as London has to spread out and swallow up thousands of acres of green fields every year few desirable residential districts that can be easily reached are altogether immune from the eventual proximity of cheap houses.

Hollywood Methods.

Arab pearl dealers in Bagdad who are to be seen walking about the streets of the Persian gulf towns with pearls secreted in small knotted bags, have turned to film industry methods to aid them in selling their wares on a slow market. If a prospective customer wants a good pearl, he has to buy a number of inferior ones, this being the only means of disposing of the less valuable pearls.

This "black-banking" system has been adopted by the pearl merchants to counteract quiet trade conditions. The pearly season this year has not been up to standard, although the catch and quality have been normal.

Old World Tunis.

Tunis is looking forward to an influx of American visitors next winter according to Monsieur Mancron, the French Resident-General who is confident that Tunis will surmount its present economic and financial difficulties. The fact that the colony is not so developed and modernized as Algeria and Morocco is no doubt an added attraction for many tourists. The source of a potential problem is that there are almost as many Italians in Tunis as French. In fact, up to the census last year the Italian population there was greater than the French. However, the French Resident-General states that the relations between the French and Italians are most cordial.

"Sultan of the Atlas."

An Eastern potentate, who is known to the Moorish tribes over whom he rules as the "Sultan of the Atlas," arrived in London last month. He is El Glaoui, the Pasha of Marrakesh, one of the quasi-capitals of the Sultanate of Morocco. His power is second only to that of the Sultan of Morocco. El Glaoui is a modern-minded chieftain who wears European clothes when travelling and understands both English and French. An 18-hole golf course forms part of his estate in Marrakesh. London's traffic, he declared holds no terrors for him—he learned how to dodge it during his visit in 1925.

Cinema Sliding Roofs.

Modern architecture has severe critics among architects themselves. One grave defect they see in their work is in the roof of the big cinema building. "The modern cinema," said one, "should be constructed with a sliding roof, so that the whole interior can be flooded with sunshine and air in the morning." It seems strange that this suggestion has not been carried out extensively in cinemas, for it does appear contrary to common sense that such buildings should be permanently dark and artificially sterilised when fresh air and sunshine are easily accessible.

A Forgotten Anniversary.

Whereas everybody remembers the Great War and its beginning, very few remember the fact that Aug. 4, 1900, was the day when the International Relief Force marched out of Tientsin, to attempt the relief of Peking. The army numbered only 18,000 men of all nations, and this notwithstanding the fact that Admiral Seymour had said it would take 50,000 to accomplish the task.

The British contingent was commanded by Gen. Sir Alfred Gaselee, and the Naval A.D.C. was none other than Sir Roger Keyes, who contributed not a little to the success of the expedition and the fact that the British were the first to relieve the Legations on Aug. 14.

Mr. Lowes Dickinson.

Many generations of Cambridge men mourned the death of Mr. Lowes Dickinson. King's College had no more distinguished don. A Hellenist with a brilliant pen and a quiet, halting speech, he burned to reform Europe and the world. The fact that man was a rational being who refused to act rationally made him unhappy, writes one of his friends:—

"But he took mishaps, great or small, with philosophic resignation. The last time I saw him was at Cambridge a few months ago, when he had just returned from a country walk, during which he had fallen in a dyke almost up to his neck. His master Socrates could not have recounted the incident more delightfully."

from the files.

Looking Back 25 Years.

Bombay and Lucknow are the first Indian towns to possess motor fire apparatus. Lucknow has recently placed in commission a motor steam fire engine of a pumping capacity of 400 gallons per minute, and Superintendent Nicholls, of the Bombay Fire Brigade, has just received delivery of a petrol motor tender and combined fire escape, with ladders to extend to a height of 50 feet.

Both these appliances have been constructed by Messrs. Merry, Weather & Sons, of London and it may also be of interest to our readers to know that the same firm have just supplied one of their 400 gallon motor steam fire engines to the Singapore Fire Department. This latest engine is the second of its kind in service at Singapore, the first one having been supplied early last year since when it has proved in every way its superiority over horse drawn engines. When Hong Kong can afford it—!—Hong Kong Daily Press, November 3, 1907.

Looking Back 50 Years.

"Unmerciful disaster has followed fast and followed faster" upon that devoted city Manila. Rocked to its foundations by appalling earthquakes one year, its population decimated by the deadliest of epidemics another, it is liable throughout the south-west monsoon to repeated and destructive typhoons. So accustomed are the Filipinos to the last name visitation that they scarcely count them calamities worth consideration. Not so, however, with the terrible storm that has just passed over them. The 20th October, 1882, will be chronicled in the annals of Manila as a dia triste. To some cities it would prove, after the ravages of the cholera pest, a crowning misfortune, but, rich in resources, the fair capital of Luzon will illustrate that marvellous resilience from adversity which places her among the great cities of the world.

CHINESE CONSULAR INVOICES

THE REGULATIONS, ETC., ALTERED

The Commissioner of Chinese Customs for Kowloon and District has notified the Chairman of the General Chamber of Commerce of the new regulations as regards Consular Invoices and the new scale of charges.

It is interesting to note that where there are no Chinese Consuls, American Consuls are to act on behalf of the Chinese Government.

The letter, which has been forwarded to us by the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is as follows:—

Office of Chinese Maritime Customs for Kowloon and District,
Hong Kong, Nov. 2, 1932.

The Chairman,
Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce,
Hong Kong.

Dear Sir,
I have to inform you that Customs Notifications No. 136 in regard to Consular Invoices is modified to the following extent:—

(a) The certification fee payable to the Customs on cargo not covered by Consular Invoice shipped from abroad during November and December 1932 remains at Customs Gold Units 5. The triple fee of G.U. 15 for such cargo shipped from abroad on and after January 1, 1933, remains unchanged.

(b) 1. ASSESSMENT OF MINIMUM VALUE.
In order to determine whether or not merchandise must be covered by Consular Invoice, the valuation of $200 Chinese currency is to be considered as equivalent to G.U. 110. The basis of valuation for consular invoice purposes will be the f.o.b. value of the goods concerned.

An exception to this rule is to be made in the case of merchandise shipped from Japan, Korea, Formosa, and other Japanese territories, and when determining whether the value of such merchandise in yen requires that it be covered by consular invoice or not, $200 Chinese currency—not G.U. 110—is to be taken as the basis for conversion.

2. PASSENGERS' BAGGAGE.
Articles carried by passengers in their baggage, provided they are not for sale, need not be covered by consular invoice even if valued at or above $200 Chinese currency.

3. A shipment of cargo from one port of shipment abroad to one destination and one consignee in China, even if divided up and partially transhipped to other ports on arrival in China, need only be covered by one consular invoice.

4. IMPORTS VIA DAIREN.
Foreign goods entering other Chinese ports via Dairen must be covered by consular invoices. In the case of products of the Kwantung Leased Territory shipped to other ports in China, consignees may apply to the Customs at destination for issue of consular invoice on payment of fee of G.U. 5 but without payment of fine.

5. AMERICAN CONSULS AT CERTAIN PLACES TO ISSUE.

As there are no Chinese Consuls at Istanbul (Constantinople), Smyrna, Danzig, Helsingfors, and Prague, and as it is not possible to establish additional Consulates there for the time being, it has been agreed with the American Government that American Consuls at these places will issue consular invoices on behalf of China, and that until supplies of the Chinese consular invoice form have been furnished to these American Consuls they will use the form of consular invoice employed in the case of goods shipped to the United States. Invoices on American consular invoice forms issued by American Consuls at the above-mentioned foreign ports are accordingly to be accepted in the same manner as Chinese consular invoices.

I am,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) E. N. ENSON,
Commissioner of Chinese Customs, Kowloon and District.

CHINESE INVOICE OFFICER

TO BE APPOINTED TO HONG KONG.

"As result of an agreement between British and Chinese Governments a Chinese Invoice Officer will soon be appointed to issue and certify consular invoices in Hong Kong on behalf of the Chinese Government."

POLICE DISPERSE UNEMPLOYED

FIFTY ARRESTS MADE
DURING RIOTS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Oct. 1. The unceasing silence prevailing in Parliament Square after the police had thrown a huge cordon round the district and had stopped all traffic, contrasted with the seething masses of humanity which blocked nearly all the several approaches to the centre of London.

The crowds must have aggregated several hundred thousand, but they were mostly good-tempered and sounds of cheering were sent up as press photographers were active taking flash-light pictures of the remarkable scenes.

The crowds added a seasonal touch by letting go fireworks.

Cars Overtaken.

Humour, or malicious activities, exhibited themselves in several places, however.

One crowd overtook and unsuccessfully attempted to set on fire two motor-cars which were endeavouring to find their way through the enormous crowds on the Embankment.

Mounted police on duty in Trafalgar Square were the victims of numerous attacks by hooligans, who pelted them with bottles and stones. Several arrests were made.

The scene in the House of Commons earlier in the evening was of very short duration.

"In Name of Millions."

A shrill cry from the Gallery, "In the name of the millions of unemployed, I demand that the deputation be received and that Hannington be released," interrupted the debate on the economic position.

The interrupter was swiftly seized by attendants and ejected.

In the meantime, huge crowds of spectators had gathered outside the House of Commons to await the arrival of the unemployed demonstrators, but the police dispersed the small bodies as they arrived and finally completely cleared the Square.

Led Astray by a Few Hotheads.

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Oct. 2. When police officers to-day raided the headquarters of the Unemployed Workers Movement in Bloomsbury, London, they took possession of many documents.

Walter Hannington, the organiser of the recent unemployed demonstrations, was later charged at Bow Street Police Court with attempting to cause disaffection among the police and was remanded for a week.

Samuel Langley, another man arrested, was also charged with inciting disturbance and was bound over to keep the peace.

The unemployed marchers, numbering about two thousand, who came to London from different parts of the country last week are being provided with food and shelter by the public authorities.

Good Behaviour.

Sir Cyril Cobb, Chairman of the London County Council Public Assistance Committee, has testified to their good behaviour in the institutions where they have been lodged and the authorities also agree that they have conducted themselves in an orderly fashion during their demonstrations.

In accordance with the usual custom, they have been given permission to hold their meetings in Hyde Park and Trafalgar Square, and the disturbances attending those gatherings were, without a doubt, caused by London hooligans, who used the presence of unwieldy crowds to provoke trouble.

It is understood that the marchers, on completing their programme of demonstrations, will in the next few days, return by train to their homes.

The general impression is that they have been misled into a pointless effort by a few hotheads. While the widest public sympathy is felt for the genuine unemployed, some criticism has been levelled at the authorities for allowing too much latitude to the demonstrations, which have only served to obstruct London traffic on two occasions.

Fifty Arrests.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Nov. 2. Fifty were arrested in last night's disturbances and normal conditions were restored before midnight.

LATER.

The unemployed disturbances in London last night had a sequel to-day in the activity of Police Courts, where a number of the men arrested were charged in connection with the disorder.

The largest number of twenty-seven were brought up at Bow Street, which was strongly guarded by police.

A few of the public were admitted at last of news columns.

STRANGE VISITOR IN PREMIER'S GARDEN

YOUNG STUDENT DETAINED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Nov. 2. THERE was a strange visitor to the Premier's residence at Hampstead in Ivan Serun, described as a British subject and student aged nineteen. He was remanded for one week, no bail being allowed, at Hampstead Police Court, on a charge of being in the garden of the Premier's house for an unlawful purpose.

A constable in giving evidence said that he arrested Serun in the garden at three in the morning, and that he had a brick in his hand and two others under his arm. He said that he just came in to look round.

Asked what he was doing with bricks, he said he was "playing with them."

POLISH FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

WARSAW, Nov. 2. THE Foreign Minister, M. Zaleski, has resigned.

ROYAL NAVY

CAPTAINS' RETIREMENTS

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A concession is announced in a new Order-in-Council respecting the grant of a step in rank to captains, R.N., on their retirement. It will be remembered that a year ago the Admiralty decided that the grant of steps in rank on or after retirement should be discontinued, and that officers should retire with and retain the rank last held by them on the active list. Details of the order of Oct. 1931 showed that the new rules were not to come into force immediately, as "all officers, except captains on the executive list of seniority of 1926 and below, whether on the active or retired list at the date of these regulations, are to retain any privilege of advancement applicable to their existing ranks."

A new Order-in-Council states that the Admiralty are now of opinion that the revised regulations should not be applicable to officers who were on the list of executive captains at the date of that order, and consequently the new rules are to be applicable to "captains promoted to that rank after October 7, 1931 instead of to captains of seniority 1926 and below." The change affects upwards of 100 captains promoted between 1926 and 1931, all of whom, provided they have got in the requisite sea time, can now retire with the rank of rear-admiral.

APPOINTMENTS

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Capt. M. R. J. Maxwell-Scott, D.S.O., who has been appointed to succeed Captain M. Brock Birkett, D.S.O., as Captain-in-Charge at Singapore, has had a good deal of experience on the China Station, where he was serving in command of the gunboat "Snipe" when the late War began. He last served in China in 1927-8 in command of the Eight Destroyer Flotilla, which was sent out from Rosyth at the time of the despatch of the Shanghai Defence Force.

STAMP TO HONOUR A CHANCELLOR

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A memorial stamp in honour of Austria's greatest post-war statesman, Dr. Ignaz Seipel, who died in August last, is issued this week. Of dark blue colour, it will be on sale until November 30 and will be utilisable on home or foreign letters till April 30, 1933.

AMBASSADOR TO IRAQ

SIR F. HUMPHREYS
NEW TITLE

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Nov. 1. SIR Francis Humphreys was received in audience by the King at Buckingham Palace to-day, and kissed hands on his appointment as first British Ambassador to Iraq.

Sir Francis, who has had a distinguished career, has been High Commissioner for Iraq since 1929. The change in title is due to Iraq's newly-acquired status.

Sentences ranging from six months' hard labour for assaulting the police to small fines were imposed.

A number of the accused and others being remanded.

LORD HOWARD'S MISHAP

DISCHARGED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Nov. 1. LORD Howard of Effingham, heir of the Earl of Effingham, charged at Maidenhead to-day with manslaughter, was discharged by the magistrates, who were of opinion that there was insufficient evidence to justify his being sent for trial.

A man named George Hawke was found dead on the Henley road on October 10, evidently knocked down by the motor-car. The evidence at the inquest showed that Lord Howard's car was responsible for the fatal accident.

DRIVE AGAINST DRUG TRAFFIC

1,000 OPIUM DENS CLOSED

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Addressing the Fifth Committee of the League of Nations on Oct. 9 a French delegate stated that over 1,000 opium dens have been abolished in Cochinchina and that in Tonkin and Annam the dens have been completely suppressed as the result of the efforts of the League of Nations. Over 15 tons of illegal drugs were seized last year and the consumption of opium decreased by 45 per cent. It was revealed that in the Dutch East Indies there were 80,000 opium smokers and that over 2,000,000 individuals in Bolivia practised the coca leaf habit.

24 persons were sentenced to the maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a fine of £1,000 each at Alexandria on Oct. 9 for drug smuggling.

AIR MAILS POPULAR

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Nov. 1. SINCE last year, air mails carried by British machines have increased thirty per cent, and the total mails carried for Great Britain by 17 per cent.

The total air mail traffic has doubled itself within the last three years.

DISARMAMENT PARLEY

CAPT. EDEN OFF TO GENEVA

[BRITISH WIRELESS SERVICE.]

RUGBY, Nov. 1. THE Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Capt. Anthony Eden, will represent the British Government at the Bureau of the Disarmament Conference, which meets at Geneva on Thursday. He is leaving London for Geneva to-morrow.

The Bureau will receive the reports of the various sub-committees who have been considering chemical warfare, explosives and other aspects of the question. The new French plan will not be presented before next week, when it is understood, M. Herriot, who is now in Spain, will have reached Geneva.

FRENCH MONOPLANE AT KAI TAK

OFF TO SAIGON WITH MAIL
ON SATURDAY.

A large French monoplane, La Zalee, arrived at Kai Tak at 12.30 p.m. yesterday, having made the journey from Canton in an hour. La Zalee left Saigon on Sunday morning and flew to Canton arriving there at 1 p.m. the next day.

The passengers arriving here yesterday were Mr. J. Nogues, Director of Air-Orient, the company controlling the service, Mr. P. Ganney, of the Banque Indo-Chine, Mr. F. de Courcelles, also of the Banque Indo-Chine, and Colonel Glaise, Eastern Manager of Air-Orient.

Col. Glaise said that they intended to stay in Hong Kong until Saturday, and would then return to Saigon, via Hanoi. The flight was experimental. Col. Glaise added: "Our intention is to confer with the Government, but I prefer not to say anything at present. I think that in all probability we will carry air-mail from Hong Kong to Saigon on the present flight, but the whole thing is experimental. We have one bag of mail from Canton for Saigon and places on the route to Mers-el-Kheir."

The crew are as follows:—M. Lannay, pilot, M. Schwager, mechanic, and M. Queysel, wireless operator.

GRIM TEN DAYS' BATTLE

JAPANESE COMMANDER
KILLED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

HARBIN, Nov. 1. THE story of a grim ten days' battle, in which the Japanese garrison commander of Taiacheng, Captain Hayashi, was killed, has just been released by the Japanese military authorities, following the successful culmination of the engagement.

The Japanese admit to thirty-three Japanese losses in killed, wounded and missing, but do not disclose the number of Manchukuo casualties in the bitter fighting.

It appears that a large force of the southern group of the anti-Manchukuo Volunteers, numbering approximately 4,000, launched an attack on Taiacheng, about thirty miles from Koshan, on October 20.

Stubborn Defence.

The city was surrounded and for ten days the battle raged, the defenders putting up a stubborn resistance which repulsed a series of violent attacks until the arrival of reinforcements.

On the morning of the 30th, the long-awaited relief arrived when the defenders were almost on their last legs. The newcomers consisted of the Tanemura and Shishida detachments, supported by aeroplanes. They came up to Taiacheng from the north, attacked the anti-Manchukuo positions, from the rear and compelled them to retreat, thus lifting the siege.

Japanese Losses.

Fourteen Japanese soldiers, in addition to Captain Hayashi, were killed and fourteen others were seriously wounded. Four employees of the South Manchuria Railway are reported missing.

RUMANIA'S ROYAL TANGLE

PRINCESS HELEN'S
SETTLEMENT

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

BUCHAREST, Nov. 1. IT is revealed that Princess Helen, former Queen of Rumania, has signed the settlement with the Government.

The only change of terms from those tendered by the Government is that Princess Helen will reside at her palace on Bucharest's choicest boulevard instead of where the Government desires.

JAPANESE AND SOVIET

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER
RUMOUR

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

HARBIN, Nov. 2. IT is rumoured in the Japanese newspapers that General Li Tu, the leader of the North-East anti-Manchukuo forces, arrived in Haharok on October 13.

OLYMPIC GAMES AND WORLD PEACE

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Lord Burghley, M.P., the famous athlete, and captain of the last British Olympic team, gave a spirited reply on Oct. 10 to critics who ask if it is worth while for this country to send a team to the Games. He said they had been told they did not do very well, but the idea of points rather tended to blind observers to the real spirit of the Games. He added: "It is no good Governments trying to make pacts for peace unless there is the spirit to back them up. In the Olympic Games you find every spirit. This country had every reason to be proud of its team, both on and off the field. Their record showed that this country was not so effete as some people seemed to think."

MUNICIPAL POLLS

SLIGHT NET GAIN
FOR LABOUR

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, Nov. 2. SLIGHT net gains for the Labour Party are shown in the eighty-four results which have come through so far in connection with the Municipal Council elections throughout England and Wales.

Three hundred cities and boroughs (excluding London) went to the polls yesterday, but only a small proportion of the results are available.

Although Labour gained in many towns, only in a few cases was the turnover sufficient for a change of party majorities in the Councils, and in the case of Sheffield, where Labour has had control for the past six years, the Labour majority was wiped out.

Labour gains include six seats at Oldham, five at Leeds, four at Sunderland. Their losses include eight in Plymouth and four in Manchester.

HOOVER IN FIGHTING TRIM

CORDIAL RECEPTION AT INDIANAPOLIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Herbert Hoover to-day returned to Washington after a successful campaign trip to Indianapolis, where he received the greatest ovation of his campaign thus far, and plunged immediately into preparation for continuing his efforts reelection on a concentrated scale until the elections are over.

Thirty three thousand people cheered the President last night for eight minutes when he appeared at Butler University, while 30,000 others waited outside to listen to his speech and cheer him.

Invades New York.

Heartened by this reception, the President will invade New York Monday for another campaign blast.

Thereafter he is expected to swing out West again to Chicago, and speak thereafter at Springfield, Ill., and St. Louis, providing he decides to turn southward, or at Minneapolis, if his advisors insist on him going into the grain belt.

Thereafter there is a strong probability that he will continue on to the Pacific Coast and make his last campaign speech at his home in Palo Alto, Calif., where he will vote and await the returns of the election.

En route back to Washington Hoover made platform appearances, discussing the administration's handling of the railroad problem.

Railroads Helped.

He said the administration combatted the difficult railroad situation which at one time raised the possibility for receivership of three-fourths of the nation's railroads.

Various administrative measures, such as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, forestalled this, Hoover said.

Hoover's reception at Indianapolis encouraged him to believe that a concentrated drive during the rest of the campaign will still give him a chance to win. The throngs at Indianapolis displayed real enthusiasm for him.

The crowd apparently was determined to outdo the Democrats who were listening to Governor Albert J. Ritchie of Maryland, Democratic campaigner, in another part of the city.

Republicans saw in the demonstration a reaction from hostile reception which the President received in Detroit a week ago.

Fighting Speech.

President Hoover flayed the campaign utterances of his Democratic rival, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, in respect of the tariff, the supreme court, foreign bond sales and other topics.

It was another of the President's typical fighting speeches. At each high crest the crowd interrupted to cheer the President.

He branded as atrocious Roosevelt's implied charge that Republicans control the United States supreme court.

Hoover emphasized that appointments to the supreme court bench were chosen solely on the basis of their character and mental power.

He pleaded for reelection on the basis of "whether we shall go on in fidelity to American traditions or turn to innovations in the spirit which is disclosed by sinister revelations and veiled promises."

Strikes on Bonds.

Dealing with Roosevelt's enunciations against the sale of foreign bonds in the United States, the President stressed the fact that the federal government is powerless to regulate such sales whereas Roosevelt, as governor of New York, possessed such authority but did not act.

He also called attention to the (Continued on next column.)

SINO-AMERICAN TREATY

RATIFICATIONS TO BE EXCHANGED

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

NANKING, Nov. 2. [N] a mandate issued from Loyang yesterday, the National Government has appointed Mr. Hawkins Yen, Chinese Chargé d'Affaires in Washington, as plenipotentiary delegate to exchange ratifications of the Sino-American Arbitration Treaty.

AMERICA HONOURS BRITISH ARTIST

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Mr. Frank Brangwyn, R.A., with two other artists, has been asked to paint a series of panels for "Radio City"—the huge Rockefeller Wireless Centre being built in New York. Mr. Brangwyn, who has accepted the offer, stated that nine panels in all will be painted by the three artists. "Radio City" is claimed to be the biggest construction scheme in the world's history. It will occupy three blocks in the heart of New York and the surface area will not be less than 513,424 sq. ft. It will be a 70-storey skyscraper, and the nine panels will be placed in the main corridor, when completed, £50,000,000 is the estimated cost of the building scheme.

fact that Roosevelt was once an official in a company organized to sell foreign securities, and believed in and practiced what, as presidential candidate, he now denounces as "immoral and the cause of our calamities."

The President reiterated opposition to the cancellation of war debts.

Workers Helped.

The administration's rigid restriction of immigration, he continued, aided materially in helping American workers to retain the standard of living to which they have been accustomed.

Hoover asserted the administration was making every effort to bring a return to normal work and prosperity, and achievements to date enable him to promise to fulfill this objective.

En route to Indianapolis Hoover delivered several platform speeches. In these he stressed the Republican effort to safeguard American industry against foreign competition, blaming low wages abroad for low prices here.

He cited the case of Japan's "where the currency has dropped and their pottery, is flowing over our borders, presenting proof of the need of a protective tariff."

WHY AIRMEN LOSE THEIR WAY

BECAUSE THEY BECOME IMPATIENT

LONDON, Oct. 19.—In a paper read before the Royal Aeronautical Society of Arts, London on Oct. 7, Dr. Norman Macmillan said he found that most pilots who lost their way in the air did so because they became agitated about the non-arrival of their next landmark as early as they expected it to appear. He said: "They become impatient and search for another landmark near where they imagine they are, turn off their course to discover it and lose themselves, whereas with a little less imagination and a little more faith in their compass would have taken them, in most cases, to their destination." Apart from the hazards of engine failure and change in weather conditions, Capt. Macmillan maintained, that long-distance straight flights were perhaps the easiest type of flight so far as navigation was concerned. He added that "A far more difficult and no less hazardous form of navigational flight is that practised by fleet air arm reconnaissance aircraft in the conduct of their regular duties when at sea. These aircraft leave the aircraft carrier and proceed upon reconnaissance. They are probably required to fly to a certain spot, make observations there over a given area, involving the changing of the course a number of times, and at the conclusion of the reconnaissance (which may have for its object the search for and spotting of enemy submarines and to be undertaken over sea ways far out of sight of land), the return flight to the carrier, which may have changed its position in the interval, being along a course which was known before the aircraft left her deck. This is a vastly different problem from that of straight line flying, although the straight-line flying of aviators well-known to the public earns far more honour and glory than work of a far more difficult character which is carried out often unseen and unheard of."

BOY SCOUTS LEARNING TO FLY

LONDON, Oct. 10.—A troupe of Flying Boy Scouts has been organised in this country. 17 Boy Scouts, under their leader, are attending a series of weekly lectures at Brooklands Aerodrome on aeronautical subjects similar to those given at the R.A.F. College at Cranwell. At the end of the course the boys are to be examined and prize candidates will be given actual flying instruction. The aim of the scheme is to produce a race of boys who are as familiar with an airplane as they are with a bicycle.

LOCAL SOCCER

INTERPORT TRIAL

A poor crowd turned out to see the Soccer Interport trial at the Sockkoppou Ground when an Army team drew with the Trial Eleven.

The following were the players: Interport Trial—Rodger; Mullane, Martin; Tong Kwan, Beltrao, Duncan; E. Strange, Ridley, Howe, Jones, Baldry.

The Army:—Heath; Allan, Chan, Morgan, Pardoe, Podmore; Kirkham, Channing, Higgins, Lake, Duncan.

The game opened with midfield play for sometime after which Heath did well to save from Ridley. The Army had a good chance when he deflected Higgins' shot to give the Army a fruitless corner. At this stage Duncan (Club) was prominent with some fine tackling and smart clearances. The trial drew first blood through Jones who scored with a pretty shot to give Heath no chance, the result of a pass from Howe.

The Interport side made several changes in the middle line on the resumption. Beltrao was placed in the right half position. Duncan moved to the Centre, and Tong Kwan took the left half quarter. This experiment did not meet with any success. Beltrao was a disappointment to his supporters while Tong Kwan also slowed down considerably. Mullane justified his selection with some brilliant saves, his anticipation being well timed. After some clever passing among the forwards the Trial team scored through Howe, a rather tame shot, from a pass received from Ridley. The Army was not denied, however, when shortly after Lakeman scored from Kirkham's centre. From then on the Army had most of the play.

Higgins could have put his side ahead but he missed a good opportunity when he was late with an easy chance. A pretty piece of combination enabled Howe to pass to build up some centre resulted in a goal. Ridley headed it in beautifully. Shortly before the final whistle sounded Kirkham made a well timed pass to Higgins who scored the equaliser for the Army. The Soldiers, on the day's play deserved a win but their forwards missed many a good chance by poor shooting. Rodger played his usual game, otherwise their score would have been higher. Jones was the outstanding forward in the field, his approaches always spell danger for the Army. Duncan if only for his first half display was deserving of mention.

LOCAL HOCKEY

H.M.S. MEDWAY TOO STRONG.

A one-sided game was witnessed at Happy Valley yesterday, in the Maudie Shield Tournament between H.M.S. Medway and R.A.O.C. The former team played well and won by 6 goals to nil.

The players who scored for the winners were Lewis (1) Robertson (1) and Hawgood (4).

DUBLIN SWEEPSTAKE RIVALS

London, Oct. 10.—First steps have already been taken towards the institution of two new sweepstakes, as rivals to the Irish organisation, both of which express their intention of allocating a generous percentage of the proceeds to British hospitals and charities. One of them is the project of Capt. Spencer Freeman, the creator of the amazingly successful Irish Hospitals Sweepstake, the other is being promoted from Monte Carlo and is to be known as the "Principality of Monaco Sweepstake." 10/- tickets for the Grand National Race, next March, it is said will be on sale in three weeks' time.

FOREIGN WARSHIPS IN PORT

FRENCH FLAGSHIP AND U.S. FLOTILLA

Sport Fixtures and Club Facilities for Entertaining Visitors.

A member of vessels of the U.S. Far Eastern Fleet, details of which have already been given, arrived in port yesterday morning. The U.S.S. Paul Jones steamed into Harbour at 7.15 a.m. and was followed 45 minutes later by four other destroyers the U.S.A. Whipple, Smith Thompson, J. D. Edwards and Barker. At 9.30 the Stewart, Edsall and Parrot arrived followed about an hour later by the U.S. Destroyer depot ship, Black Hawk. The American warship will stay in Hong Kong for a week.

The French cruiser Primauguet, the flagship of vice-Admiral Berthelot, Commander-in-Chief of the French Asiatic fleet, arrived in port at 11 a.m.

The French sloop Bellatrix, the river gunboat Argus, and the Portuguese cruiser Adamastor are also in port.

The U.S. gunboat Fulton, which takes the place of the old U.S.S. Helena in South China waters, is expected today. This makes a total of seventeen foreign vessels in port the largest number for many years.

Britain Well Represented.

There are also in the Harbour three county class cruisers, Cumberland, Devonshire and Suffolk, and the Medway, while smaller craft include a destroyer leader and five destroyers, three submarines, the sloop Bridgewater, several river gunboats, and the troopship Neutrality.

The Hermes is in Whampoa dock.

ENTERTAINING THE VISITORS

SOCIAL AND SPORT FIXTURES.

Local sporting and social clubs are extending their facilities to the crews of the American naval ships now in Hong Kong and it is gratifying to note that the initiative was taken by the British Eighth Destroyer Flotilla.

While in the Colony all officers will become honorary members of the Hong Kong Club, the United Services Recreation Club and the Royal Hong Kong Golf Club. All the usual indoor facilities are to be afforded by the Hong Kong Club, whilst the U.S.R.C. tennis courts and one covered squash racket court will be available for the use of the visiting officers, their wives and other relatives. It has also been arranged for them to become honorary members of the Royal Navy Recreation Club to allow them the use of the open-air squash courts situated at the rear of Murray Barracks.

Thanks to arrangement made by the United States Consul-General tickets are available for officers and their wives who wish to attend the Hong Kong Race Club meeting on Saturday, and the use of the Royal Naval Box is being offered.

All ratings will be honorary members of the Royal Naval Canteen and are to be invited to a "Tombola" to be held at the Canteen on Friday and Tuesday next. By arrangement with the management of the King's Theatre, Queen's Theatre and the Central Theatre back stalls at half price will be reserved for ratings in uniform, and reduced bus fares will be allowed.

The Caroline Hill ground will be at the disposal of the ratings daily for basketball. For basketball the South West Borderers are allowing the Squadron the use of their ground from 9.30 a.m. until noon, while by arrangement with the Y.M.C.A. (Kowloon) the swimming bath at that institution will be open for their use between 2 p.m. and 3.30 p.m.

Tennis Match.

A tennis match between the American ships and our own T.B.D.'s will take place on Friday, on the U.S.R.C. courts, Kowloon, at 2 p.m. Teams of six, playing doubles, will represent the Naval units, and the team to represent the 8th Destroyer Flotilla is as follows:—Lt. Com. K. J. D'Arcy (H.M.S. (Continued on next column.)

THE OLDE ENGLISH FAIRE

PREPARATIONS AT ST. ANDREW'S VICARAGE

The grounds of St. Andrew's Vicarage, Kowloon, have taken on a scene of great activity in preparation for "The Olde English Faire" on Saturday afternoon. First and foremost there is the getting together of stallholders and articles for these workers to sell. There is also the work of measuring sites, etc., for the stalls. There is the arranging and rehearsing of dances and theatricals always excellent features at "Faires."

To judge from the scurry and bustle going on in and around the vicarage and its grounds the hundred and one jobs referred to are being admirably performed. Per example we hear of a very staid army captain who is arranging to provide and sell potatoes and other good things at the vegetable stall. The troop of scouts attached to St. Andrew's is busy, under the direction of Scoutmaster Dormer, making wicker baskets; the school children are hard at work sewing, knitting, and crocheting to provide fancy articles for their own and other stalls. From a point of view of selling the "Faire" should be more successful this year than ever before.

It is amusing to note that so much marmalade, chutney, pickles, etc., has been made that those in charge cannot find a sufficient number of bottles to hold the delicacies. It will be easily seen from the above therefore that a great time is in store for all who are in any way connected with the "Faire," but particularly for those who are going along to spend money and enjoy themselves. The "Faire" committee hope, and rightly seeing that they have worked hard for the pleasure of others, that the public will turn up in their hundreds and we are certain that their hopes will be gratified.

With the Xmas season nearly upon us the "Faire" is a grand opportunity for purchasing presents, and with the knowledge that it is being held in aid of an excellent cause, the Church, we feel sure that patrons will bear this in mind. The committee have tried to make it a bigger affair than in previous years, and it rests with the public now to turn up and help make the endeavours of the committee an accomplished thing.

Keppel, Lieut. G. M. F. Fuller (H.M.S. Keppel), Lieut. D. Lammie (H.M.S. Whitehead), Lieut. R. D. Watson (H.M.S. Keppel), Sub-Lieut. G. I. Carver (H.M.S. Veteran) and Sub-Lieut. W. A. M. Batten (H.M.S. Whitehall).

GOLF

On Monday next a team from the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla will play the United States Squadron in an eight-a-side, two-ball foursome and singles golf matches on the Hong Kong Golf Club links at Fanling. The representatives of the British unit will be: Capt. R. L. Burnett (H.M.S. Keppel), Com. P. Todd (H.M.S. Wild Swan), Surgeon-Lieut. Com. M. Sloane (H.M.S. Keppel), Lieut. C. A. D. W. Kiteat (H.M.S. Whitehead), Lieut. R. D. Watson (H.M.S. Keppel), Lieut. G. M. F. Fuller (H.M.S. Keppel), Lieut. S. H. Norris (H.M.S. Wren) and Sub-Lieut. W. A. M. Batten (H.M.S. Whitehall).

Boxing.

A boxing tournament arranged by the 8th Flotilla will be held at Murray Barracks on Saturday at 5 p.m., and to this invitation has also been extended to the United States Squadron who have been asked to provide an exhibition bout between representatives from their ships. Preliminary bouts will be held on Friday afternoon and evening and the best exponents of the Flotilla in heavy, light-heavy, middle, welter, light and feather weights will meet at the tournament on Saturday. There will be eight or nine fights and the winners will be presented at the close with trophies. In connection with the bout to be staged by the victors a cup will be presented for competition by the officers of the Flotilla. The Hong Kong Club and the Navy will play at Rugby on Saturday at Happy Valley and to this the Club are issuing invitations to American officers and are offering special facilities for ratings.

CHASE BANK'S CLAIM

document showing that the bill had been handed to the bank for collection—that is so.

But in this case there was no paying-in slip and you obtained no receipt. You have literally nothing to show that that bill was handed in at all—I have always been dealing with this bank through the compradore and on this account I handed the bill to the compradore and I expected he would put it through for me.

You are a business man. You knew perfectly well that you give a negotiable instrument for which you are liable for Yen 150,000, and you have not a scrap of paper to show for it?—The reason why I didn't ask for a receipt in July was because the bill which I handed in for collection in February was put through properly without a receipt and I therefore did not insist upon a receipt.

No Receipt.

I am talking about February?—Well, on February 12 I did ask for a receipt but the compradore told me that the practice of that bank was that it very seldom gave receipts for documents of that kind.

You agree with me as a business man, that you empowered Charlie Chon to deal with a bill for Yen 150,000 and you have no receipt to show for it?—The compradore told me that the bank had refused to issue a receipt for such a document. Did you believe that?—I took his word for it because he was the compradore of the bank; I had no reason to doubt his word.

Were you surprised to hear it?—I was not surprised. I accepted the explanation. The bank is a very substantial one and it might not be a custom of the bank to issue a receipt.

Handed to Charlie Chon.

In regard to the circumstance under which the bill was handed to Charlie Chon, witness said that he asked Chon if the bank collected bills and was told that they collected bills up to any amount. Witness then went back to his shop, had the bill written out and took it to the bank.

Mr. Sheldon: Do you know Henry Chon?—Yes, but I dealt with Charlie Chon.

Do you know Charlie Chon's initials?—Yes, two "C's."

Mr. Sheldon then handed witness an exchange contract and asked: Look at those initials, are they Charlie Chon's?—No.

They are "H.C." aren't they?—I can make out the "C" only.

Anybody you knew with the initials "H.C." in the bank?—No. The bank's evidence is that this bill of exchange for Yen 150,000 was sold in February by you to the bank at 79, whereas your books show that you received money in March at 77—I got the rate of exchange on the day I received the money.

You see the position? The bank's documents showed an ordinary sale of the bill?—Well, I know nothing about that, I had no access to the bank's documents.

On March 6 you drew a bill for Yen 100,000?—Yes.

The exchange contract in connection with Yen 100,000 was shown witness and he said he had never seen it before.

A Question of Rates.

Mr. Sheldon: The exchange contract shows the rate at 79 1/2. Yes. The rate in your book is 79 1/2. Yes. The rate shown in my cash book was the rate fixed with the compradore, but what rate he got from the bank, I don't know.

When did you fix with the compradore?—The same day.

If your rate was a genuine rate, it would be a remarkable thing that you got a better rate than the bank paid?—For all I know it may be that the compradore wanted to make money on this bill and he fixed a rate with me and then he fixed a rate with the bank. And he gave you a better rate?—It may be that he was of the opinion that the market was in his favour. He might have lost money on the deal.

The case was adjourned.

COAST DEFENCE MANOEUVRES

NIGHT ATTACK REPULSED BY COAST DEFENCE

Early last evening an "armed raider" was "sunk" outside the Western entrance of the harbour. The vessel carried no lights, but on being "picked-up" by the searchlights, and on being identified, she was fired on from both sides of the channel, with the inevitable result.

The reader may not be aware that the services have been carrying out practices in coast defence during the last few days. The exercises commenced at 12 noon on Tuesday and will continue until 9 a.m. this morning. During this period vessels of the Royal Navy and the War Department attempted to enter the harbour under various conditions. At times they represented enemy vessels trying to break into the harbour, and refusing to obey the signals of the Examination Service, when they were fired on, were (presumably) sunk. At other times they represented friendly and hostile merchant ships.

On Tuesday evening attempts were made to force the Lyceum entrance and through the courtesy of some local shipping companies, merchant vessels entering the harbour during daylight were stopped and searched as would be done in time of war.

When our representative landed on Sioncutters' Island last evening to witness the attack on the Western entrance, he was met by a Gunner of the Royal Artillery and on enquiring for the observation post, was led by his guide along narrow roads and lanes and through deep gorges and undergrowth till he arrived at the wicket-gate where the pass word was given and he was admitted.

The observation post was in darkness as the long arms of searchlights swept across the water, crossing and re-crossing in their endeavour to pick out their prey. Suddenly the "raider" was caught and held by a beam, others swung round and concentrated on the target.

The Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps played their part in the exercises and certain lights were manned and operated by detachments from the Corps.

PHILIPPINES AND INDEPENDENCE

REACTIONS OF U.S. PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

Manila, Oct. 31.—The question of Philippine independence again has loomed large in discussions in the Philippine legislature.

During the week end, Senate President Manuel Quezon and majority members of the senate, have been puzzling over what action the independence commission should take when it meets next Saturday on the various independence resolutions seeking among others the definition by the commission of its attitude on the Congressional freedom bills which were the object of public hearings recently before the legislature's metropolitan committees.

The forthcoming presidential elections in the United States have added to the intricacy of the problem. In the event that the Democratic party wins the elections, should the legislature hold a special session to formulate new independence plans and should Senate President Quezon be sent to Washington to re-enforce the mission? These are some of the questions before the senate's caucus. These meetings were however declared to be more in the nature of consultations convened by Mr. Quezon to sound the views of his colleagues in the senate before he convenes the next meeting of the Independence commission.

There is a wide range of views among the senators as to what the legislature or the commission should do with respect to the Congressional bills on Philippine independence and no conclusions have been reached.

Mr. Quezon was reported to have avoided bringing up the matter of his being sent to the United States upon the closing of the present session but when one of the senators presented the question, the legislative leader is said to have brushed it aside with the statement that the commission should decide it.

Some members of the legislature among them Representative Francisco Varona, have expressed the opinion that in the event a Democratic president is elected, the insular legislature should be convened in special session to make new plans on independence.

RESCUED BY S.S. FRIDERUN

JAPANESE TRAWLER DISABLED IN TYPHOON.

According to the latest information, the week-end typhoon, which Hong Kong fortunately escaped, did considerable damage to neighbouring places. Among the victims was the Japanese fishing trawler Sun Wong Yuen of Takao, Formosa.

While on one of her usual fishing beats, the trawler was caught in the typhoon, near Prata Islands, and was at its mercy for more than 21 hours. She was rendered helpless and drifted for nearly two days until Tuesday morning. Then, when all hope seemed lost, she was sighted by the s.s. Friderun which was on her maiden voyage from Hong Kong to New Guinea.

Her crew of 24, who were in an exhausted condition were immediately rescued and, according to the local agents of the s.s. Friderun, Messrs. Melchers and Company, they will probably be landed in Manila.

The s.s. Friderun is a new vessel belonging to the Norddeutscher Lloyd and is at present on the Hong Kong-New Guinea run. Her gross tonnage is 2,400 and her commander is Captain Engles.

Nothing, however, is known of the ill-fated trawler beyond the fact that she came from Takao, Formosa.

It will be remembered that another vessel lost in the recent typhoon was the s.s. Shen Shan Maru, also a fishing trawler. She was in similar circumstances to the Sun Wong Yuen when she was sighted by the s.s. Glenislie.

"THE WET PARADE"

STRIKING TALKIE FOR THE QUEEN'S

A trade notice states:— One of the strongest casts assembled in many a season and one of the most interesting and dramatic yet depicted on the talking screen make "The Wet Parade" showing from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre, a picture far above the ordinary run of film fare.

Here is a love story which has a background of stirring modern events. It is romance of a realistic sort for what happened to the hero and heroine of "The Wet Parade" could have happened to any average young couple in the United States to-day if they were placed in similar circumstances. The story has a wide diversity of appeal for within its scope is contrasted high and low life and its various exciting episodes encompass both tragic and comic elements.

Dramatic interest is centered on the effects of liquor on a wide variety of people, starting with the disintegration of a cultured and aristocratic family of the pro-war South which results in the suicide of Lewis Stone, and continuing with the period of the old corner saloon days of New York where the romance between Dorothy Jordan and Robert Young is introduced.

The plot has any number of smash dramatic scenes which give the various players ample opportunity for effective portrayals. The episode, for instance, in which Walter Huston is placed on trial for murder of his wife, is one of the most gripping and stirring courtroom sequences ever used on the screen. Likewise the pathetic scene in which Neil Hamilton faces the loss of his eyesight which means the end of his brilliant career as a playwright.

Miss Jordan, Robert Young, Lewis Stone, Walter Huston, the amusing Jimmy "Schnozle" Durnane and Neil Hamilton—offering outstanding work in the principal roles, while the work of the supporting players including Wallace Ford, Myrna Loy, John Miljan, Clara Blandick and Emma Dunn is uniformly excellent.

"CHARLIE CHAN'S CHANCE"

COMING TO THE KING'S ON SUNDAY

A trade notice states:— An intriguing romance between Alexander Kirkland and Marian Nixon is woven into the plot of "Charlie Chan's Chance," the Fox Film's mystery drama, coming on Sunday next to the King's Theatre.

Kirkland is the handsome six-foot blond who won the acclaim of critics for his performance in "Surrender," in which he enacted the role of the youngest son who gave up his sweetheart when he discovered she was in over with another man. Miss Nixon, petite, beautiful and charming who has been playing star roles for some time, is well known on the screen as a leading lady though it was not so long ago that she was playing ingenue roles.

In "Charlie Chan's Chance," Kirkland and Miss Nixon are among the suspects in a murder tangle but they are absolved from suspicion by Charlie Chan, the famed Oriental detective, who solves the mysterious crime and brings the real criminal to justice by following what the New York police and Scotland Yard detectives regard as insignificant clues. But not until he has experienced a series of thrilling adventures and breathtaking escapes. Warner Oland, outstanding character actor, enacts the role of Charlie Chan, and other prominent personalities in the cast include H. B. Warner, Linda Watkins, James Kirkwood, Ralph Morgan and James Todd.

"AMATEUR DADDY"

HOW ITS HEROINE MADE GOOD

A trade notice states:— Marian Nixon, who appears with Warner Baxter in "Amateur Daddy," opening to-day at the King's Theatre, admits that she got her first job, and every job thereafter on her own initiative.

Her first profession job was that of a dancer, a chorus girl, and as she laughed "it trained my feet for the long and tiresome tramps around Hollywood in search of extra work, in the early days of my screen career."

She started as an "extra" at $5.00 per day, for the few days she worked. With startling rapidity she worked her way up to "bits" and then to minor roles. It was not long after that she was a featured player, and then came the realization of every screen player's fondest hopes, stardom. This all happened in the days of the silent picture, and at the very height of her career Miss Nixon deserted the screen for matrimony.

Two years later she returned, but to a different Hollywood. The screen had started to talk. A new technique had to be learned. New obstacles had to be met and overcome. The whole long road back to stardom had to be retraced. And with a genial smile and her strong determination Marian set to work. Suddenly her work flashed with the old brilliancy. Producers started clamouring for her services and Fox Films her first producers stepped in and signed her for three pictures, "Charlie Chan's Chance," "After Tomorrow" and her present film drama, "Amateur Daddy." "Amateur Daddy," tells a delightful story of a sympathetic bachelor, the part played by Mr. Baxter, who mothered a family of waifs and won himself a wife. The other players include Rita Lark, William Powell, David Landau, Jean Breslaw and Dail Konefeld. It is based on Mildred Cram's novel, "Scotch Valley."

CENTRAL THEATRE

"THE LOST SQUADRON" DRAWS CROWDED HOUSES

THRILLING AIR STUNTS

"The Lost Squadron" now showing at the Central Theatre has been drawing crowded houses for the past two days and it looks very much as though this picture will rank among the best drawing cards in the way of talking films shown in the Colony.

For those who like thrilling air stunts, "The Lost Squadron" is a picture they should not miss. There are many "shots" of breath-holding stunts as well as several spectacular crashes, where aeroplanes can be seen going up in flames.

Stunt-flying, however, is not the only meritorious point about the picture. The story is a simple one, clearly depicted, and a romantic atmosphere runs right through it all. Richard Dix is in the leading male role and is supported by a very strong cast including Mary Astor, Erich Von Stroheim, Joel Melton, Dorothy Jordan and several other well known stars.

An incident of the film, which proved to be a very welcome feature was the music, which included a number of songs which were sung in every home during the turbulent days of the Great War.

In addition to the main attraction, a cartoon "Plane Dumb" together with a short comedy at the beginning of the programme makes the current attractions at the Central very wholesome fare for cinema-goers.

GOSSIP & FACT.

"Good Companions" Film.

The production of Mr. J. B. Priestley's novel, "The Good Companions," as a talking film was announced at a meeting of Welsh Pearson Films, Ltd., in London recently. The managing director, Mr. T. A. Welsh, said that the company had entered into a new agreement with the Gaumont-British Picture Corporation, Ltd., for the production of three films, of which the first would be "The Good Companion."

An original story, to be written by Mr. Priestley, would be one of the remaining films, while negotiations were proceeding for the third subject.

It was hoped that "The Good Companions" would be ready for exhibition in the West End before the end of the year, and be generally released in March, next.

Filming Afloat.

Taking advantage of a favourable weather report, Thomas Bentley, and his unit set out for Bournemouth to film exterior scenes on the high seas for the new B.I.P. "musical," "Sleepless Nights." The location selected was the largest privately owned yacht in the world, which was anchored in Poole Harbour. This handsome craft, the interior of which is lavishly decorated with furnishings from the Winter Palace of the late Czar of Russia, made a picturesque setting for Bentley's production, and the kindly weather provided sunny skies and smooth blue water to complete the background.

"Double Trouble."

If a cast consisting of the best comedy talent in British studios has anything to do with a film farce, then, says Harry Hughes, the director, "Double Trouble" will be a riot. Every member of his cast is an outstanding performer.

Gus McNaughton, who has already been hailed everywhere for his performance in "Lucky Girl," stepped from a leading part in "The Maid of the Mountain" to the part of the impeccable valet, Joy, in "Double Trouble," which will give him a great opportunity.

Realistic Film Setting.

The attractive and fragrant setting of a florist's shop has been selected for Benita Hume in her role of heroine of Benn Levy's B.I.P. production of "The Case of Lady Camber," under the supervision of Alfred Hitchcock. She is seen as Janet King who, though in a small way of business, has some important clients and for one has prepared the floral decorations for a big wedding and the bridal bouquets.

In order that the floral detail should be correct to the last spray, B.I.P. have engaged a well-known Jermyn Street florist to advise and provide the requisite stock. The shop, when prepared for filming was, therefore, as realistic as any establishment in town.

"Devil and the Deep."

Paul Porcasi, who won praise as the cafe owner with Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper in "Morocco," recently was signed by Paramount to portray a native trader in Paramount's "Devil and the Deep," which unites Tallulah Bankhead, Gary Cooper and Charles Laughton.

He joins Cary Grant, Juliette Compton, Dorothy Christy, Henry Kolker and Arthur Hoyt in the supporting cast under the direction of Marion Gering, director of "Ladies of the Big House."

Movie Studio Manufactures Autos.

Hollywood has gone into the automobile manufacturing business to duplicate cars that have not been manufactured for seventeen years.

Four 1915 model Fiats, complete in every detail, are under construction in the machine shop of Paramount studios for the use of Helen Hayes, Gary Cooper and Adolphe Menjou in the picture of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms." The Italian cars are being constructed as war-time ambulances and are exact duplicates of those used by the Italian army in the Alpine district.

Paramount owns eight other ancient cars, the names of many being remembered only by the old timers. These old cars which are frequently seen in pictures, include a Holman 1898, Dillion Bouton 1900, Oldsmobile 1902, Cadillac limousine 1910, Royal Tourist Ambulance 1910, Stanley Steamer 1910, Buick 1914, Studebaker 1916.

NEW ELECTRICAL RECORD

London, Oct. 11.—The September figure of electricity output in Gt. Britain continues the story of expansion which has run throughout the monthly totals of the year.

The output of 622 million units is a new high record for the month and compares with 875 million units a year ago, an increase of 5.4 per cent. For the first nine months of the current year Gt. Britain's electricity output amounts to 8,632 million units, against 8,058 million units for the corresponding period of 1931.

The increase of just over 7 per cent, achieved during a period when output has slumped heavily in almost every other country, compares with an expansion of less than 5 per cent, in 1931 over the preceding year.
